Island's Berries For U.S. Market

Export Permits to Ship Logans Will Now Be Approved "Freely"

Special to The Daily Colonist

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—Applications for export permits to ship loganberries to the United States are now to be approved "freely" under arrangements completed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board with the Department of Trade and Commerce.

This favorable decision was secured today by Major General Pearkes, V.C., following a series of conferences with the Prices Board during the past 10 days.

It is of vital importance to berry growers in the Saanich and Gordon Head areas, as it will give them sufficient time to lay plans for the special cultivation of vines necessary to produce a berry required for the American pie trade. The growers may now determine for themselves what amount of their crop they should grow for export, or for domestic use.

Last year when the berry crop was ripe, the winery was unable to take all the loganberrels, due to sugar rationing; and the export quota for Vancouver Island had been fixed at 50 tons. When it became apparent the winery consumptive power had to be limited, General Pearkes at the last minute formally obtained an increase in the export quota to 150 tons.

An export quota has been established for 1947 for raspberries. This quota will amount to one-third of the exports during 1946 to the United Kingdom.

General Pearkes had been informed by the board that the exact figure of this quota, and the method by which it will be administered are being worked out by the Department of Trade and Commerce. Growers within the next few days may obtain any specified information regarding their 1947 raspberry export quota from that department.

Island Hails Capital Plan

Increased security in the fruit growing business was anticipated last night by William C. Kersey, manager of the Vancouver Island Co-operative Fruit Exchange, when informed applications for export permits to ship loganberries to the United States are now to be approved "freely" under arrangements completed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and the Department of Trade and Commerce.

"Export trade for longanberries is the only safe outlet growers have as Canada only takes a portion of berry crops," Mr. Kersey said.

He said that Mainland growers and the Vancouver Island Co-operative Fruit Exchange recently sent a petition to Ottawa urging such a move.

The Fruit Exchange head expressed gratitude that the order came early enough for growers to lay plans for the special cultivation of vines necessary to produce a berry required for the American pie trade.

He explained that vines were tied up in a different manner in order to produce certain types of berries.

This move is considered of vital importance to berry growers in the Saanich and Gordon Head areas, Mr. Kersey said.

Victoria's Answer to Disparaging Remarks

—Colonist Photo

Apart from the obvious attractions in this picture there is an interesting story. George I. Warren, commissioner of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, saw an editorial in a Winnipeg paper in which disparaging remarks were made about Victoria's climate. Quick to defend the city he has been praising and publicizing for the past 25 years. Mr. Warren yesterday sent two of the publicity bureau staff to gather some Spring flowers near the Oak Bay golf course. To the left is Mrs. Veronica Skellern, and with her is Miss Ethel Hole. The crocuses and other flowers gathered were sent by air mail to the Winnipeg editor.

Death-Carrying Germs Fantastic German Plan

LONDON, Feb. 24 (CP). — The Daily Mail said today that an arrested leader of the secret Nazi ring just broken up in Germany had told British authorities that 60 men could wipe out almost the whole population of England while only 12 would be needed to annihilate London.

The Nazi leader, arrested during the week-end in a big round-up of subversive groups in the American and British zones of Germany, was identified as Karl Rosenberg.

The Mail said Rosenberg claimed 120 agents could turn the United States into a desert and that the main germs to be used by this group would be anthrax and plague bacilli.

The newspaper continued: "Assuming London would be chosen as a target, Rosenberg explained that the city would be divided into eight sectors, each covered by one agent already immunized against the bacilli he intended to spread.

"Anthrax bacilli, for instance, sufficient to infect the whole of the London area could be taken to England in a small parcel.

"During the morning rush-hour, an agent equipped with an umbrella, walking-stick or brief case in which the terms were concealed, would make a round of underground stations, bus stops and other crowded places.

"Later in the morning he would visit public buildings, post offices, hospitals and police stations. His lunch-time target would be large restaurants. In the afternoon he would go to cinemas and shops—in the evening to theatres, hotels and dance halls."

The Mail said Rosenberg estimated that one agent by these methods could infect 12,000 persons in a single day and the attack would be continued for five days. Infected letters would be mailed to members of Parliament, senior Government officials and high officers of the three armed services, "thus disorganizing public life from the top."

BERLIN, Feb. 24 (CP). — A high British intelligence officer said tonight more than 80 per cent of the leaders of the German subversive movement plotting a revival of Nazism have been arrested.

The officer said the organization —which planned to blackmail the Allies with threats of germ warfare—existed as an immediately effective force and would have made demands to the Allies this year.

The die-hard Nazi group was cut off during the week-end by widespread raids in the British and American zones of Germany.

Fear Collapse in Britain May Bring World Chaos

Britain's present economic crisis is receiving the examination of many writers. In the following article, Sydney Gampell, financial editor of Reuters News Agency, gives his analysis.

By Sydney Gampell

LONDON, Feb. 24 (Reuters)—Some responsible people fear that Britain's present economic crisis may eventually result in world economic chaos, that unless current British and international policies are rapidly reversed to prevent it either this year or the next, the biggest crash since the fall of Constantinople—the collapse of the heart of an empire—will occur with reverberations affecting the world for centuries.

These experts believe that present policies are leading to a crash, but that wisdom still can reverse them toward prosperity.

Britain's internal policies are being reversed. The crisis has forced into the Government's hands an instrument for impelling workers out of dispensable jobs and into work essential for national survival, by the compulsion on employers through fuel control. This is indirect, because direct compulsion of workers is deemed undemocratic, but it is thought to be effective.

The policy of monetary inflation for the sake of cheap money, seen as aggravating the crisis, also is ripe for reversal. A condition of too much money, too few goods and the wrong goods, requires tackling on all fronts.

All this, even if applied with superhuman wisdom in Britain, will not avail unless overseas countries change policies regarded as ruinous for Britain. These are partly the war debts and the economic obligations imposed on Britain by the Bretton Woods Agreement, the Anglo-American Loan Agreement, the Food and Agricultural Organization and the projected International Trade Organization.

But fundamentally, this is seen as a problem of prices—of prices Britain gets for her exports as compared with those she is charged for her imports.

Britain cannot ask overseas countries to alter those things for her sake, but they may do it for their own sakes.

Britain, whose existence depends on exports, is at present not producing a cent's worth of exports.

The terrifying prospect is that the present fuel gap is trifling compared with the looming dollar gap. The Times puts it that American and Canadian credits "will probably" run out before the essential supply has been assured; and that if that happens, "millions may again be out of work in the next and worse crisis."

Wants Truman To Meet Stalin

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP).—In a Senate speech, Senator William Langer urged today that President Truman "take charge of negotiations with Russia himself" and seek a personal meeting with Premier Stalin.

The plea of the North Dakota Republican Senator was voiced against a background of these developments:

1. Lt.-Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of American occupation forces in Korea, said there appears to be "something to" reports the Russians are organizing and training Korean troops. Hodge made this statement to reporters, in response to questions, after a White House call.

2. Moscow's continued objections to Under-Secretary of State Dean Acheson's characterization of Soviet foreign policy as "aggressive and expanding."

Market Lack Closes Mine

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (CP).—Canada has no mines producing mercury and imported 152,000 pounds of it last year, R. R. Knight (C.C.F.-Saskatoon) was informed in a Commons' return today. The Pinchi Lake Mine closed down in 1944 because of "accumulation of stock and lack of market at what the producer considered an economic price."

Speed Limits Normal Again

Winter speed and load restrictions on Vancouver Island have been removed from all highways and local roads except those in the Comox electoral district, Ernest Smith, Public Works Department district engineer for the Island, announced yesterday.

Applied in mid-January because of serious damage to road surfaces due to abnormal conditions of frost and thaw, the emergency restrictions limited passenger vehicle speeds to 30 miles an hour and truck speeds to 15, with half loads.

These restrictions will continue to apply to all roads in the Comox electoral district.

Removal of restrictions on the Island Highway and local roads between Victoria and the Comox boundary three miles north of Nanaimo followed an inspection tour by the district engineer.

Slice of Stamp Sells for $620

LONDON, Feb. 24 (Reuters). — One-third of a Canadian three-cent stamp was sold today for £155 ($620).

In Port Hood, N.S., in 1899, stamps were scarce, so the postmaster cut a three-cent stamp into three pieces and marked the word one in brackets in blue on each of the pieces for use as one-cent stamps.

Epidemic Wanes Among Indians

THE PAS, Man., Feb. 24 (CP).—Word received tonight from Dr. Robert Yule, medical health officer of the Indian Affairs Branch who has been investigating reports of a further outbreak of measles among Indians in the Brochet area, said "everything is O.K."

He added he was taking off from Brochet, 200 miles north of here, for The Pas via South End and Pelican Narrows and would arrive Wednesday.

The original epidemic and resulting complications took the lives of 11 Indians.

Cheery News for Britons As Industry Curb Ends

Factories in Midlands Produce Again—Believe Winter Near Breaking Point

LONDON, Feb. 24 (CP).—Another section of Britain's paralyzed industry may revive next week, the long-drawn Winter spell may break by Wednesday and the use of gas probably won't be restricted as was feared. These scraps of good news were flung at Britain today as many Midlands factories produced again after the two-week shutdown ordered to conserve electric power.

Prime Minister Attlee announced that in the Northwest areas, industrial output would be permitted again next Monday, but he refused to say when work would be resumed in London and the Southeast counties.

On the debit side was the announcement that the candy ration of four ounces weekly would be halved and warnings that the fuel stock situation still was critical, particularly where gas undertakings were concerned.

The sun shone today in many districts, and London, after a murky morning fog, had the first above-freezing temperatures since February 14. Bitter cold returned tonight, but for once the Air Ministry forecast did not predict an indefinite continuation of Wintry weather, merely saying that the outlook after next Wednesday was uncertain.

Last night's cold was so severe, but despite a week-end of snow and cold, the interruption of transport was not as serious as had been feared and coal trains and ships were able to get through with supplies.

A million workers were affected by the switch-on of electricity in industries in eight Midlands counties. Another 4,000,000 remained idle, mostly in 30 other counties in which industrial power was cut off two weeks ago.

Attlee told the House that power would be restored a week from today in factories in Manchester and the textile-producing Northwest region. He made no mention, however, of easing the island-wide electrical cut-off of five hours a day to domestic consumers.

Restoration of industrial power in London and the Southeast region, the Prime Minister declared, will depend on further fuel economies.

Some steam-operated cotton mills, burning tires, wood and other pieces of scrap, resumed operations at Bolton in the Northwest area. One plant used a lawnmower engine to drive a machine.

The Ministry of Fuel and Power announced that for the moment, at least, threatened further restrictions would not be imposed on the use of gas. A complete report on coal supplies at the country's 1,100 gas plants is to be issued tomorrow.

Bleachers Collapse 150 Injured

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 24 (AP). — A new bleacher section collapsed tonight in Purdue University fieldhouse, killing at least two students and injuring 150 or more.

The receiving office at St. Elizabeth's Hospital reported it had been told five of the injured were dead but only available names of fatalities were Roger Gelhauser, Gary, Ind., and William J. Feldman, East Chicago, Ind., both students.

St. Elizabeth's said it had 65 injured in beds and had treated between 125 and 150 persons. Another hospital had more than 100.

The bleacher sagged and then smashed into kindling wood as fans jumped to their feet in an ovation to the Purdue basketball team, seconds after the first half ended.

Screaming thousands in the collapsed stand were spilled many feet to the dirt floor. The bleacher, with all 82 rows of seats smashed and piled like a hay stack, was about 100 feet wide.

Many of the injured laid out on the basketball floor appeared to have broken arms and legs. Doctors, nurses and Red Cross aides from other sections of the audience of 11,000 gave hurried medical treatment.

Officials announced on the public address system that the game was canceled and urged all uninjured and non-medical spectators to leave immediately so aid to the injured would not be impeded.

War-Free Eire Now on Ration

DUBLIN, Feb. 22 (CP).—Eire, which emerged unscathed from the war, now is facing an unprecedented crisis.

Bread—unrationed during the war—has been cut to six ounces weekly. Butter is down to the bare British ration level of two ounces weekly. Sugar has been reduced to half a pound a week.

Fuel supplies are so reduced that in Dublin today thousands of citizens are without fire and gas and electricity companies are urging the most stringent economy. Mainline passenger trains have been stopped as from today and industry is facing its gravest crisis.

Of all the trials that have come to Eire, the fuel predicament is the most serious. In prewar days, both homes and industry depended on British coal. When war slashed imports to a bare minimum required to maintain essential industries, the country turned to the bogs and throughout the war Eire subsisted uneconomically and uncomfortably on turf.

Last year's turf-cutting season was unusually wet and the amount of turf stored in state-controlled open-air dumps was lower than previously. The Arctic weather which halted British coal distribution and led to a ban on export coal also killed the last hopes of Eire turf supplies being sufficient to meet demands until the new producing season begins in the Summer.

Car, Trams Involved In Mishap

VANCOUVER, Feb. 24 (CP).—The operator frozen to the controls with a heavy charge of electricity passing through his body, a double-tram interurban train ran amok at Hastings and Carrall Streets tonight, injured more than 60 persons, wrecked two street cars and two automobiles.

Twelve persons were taken to hospital by ambulances which made repeated trips, and four persons, miraculously alive, were removed from a crushed automobile nearly one hour after the accident occurred. Firemen cut through the rear of the automobile with acetylene torches to release them.

The accident was one of the most sensational ever seen on a Vancouver street. Among the injured were some of the 50-odd passengers on the four trams involved and practically everyone was considerably shaken up. Only 12 required hospital treatment and only one was detained overnight.

One of the most seriously hurt was Motorman James Dinsmore, 29, who was paralyzed from shock when an estimated 500 volts passed through his body from some defect in the controls of the interurban tram. Witnesses said he screamed with pain as the tram suddenly shot out of the Carrall Street station into Hastings street traffic.

With Dinsmore unconscious on the floor, the tram hurtled ahead, picking up the sedan of Sam Dumaresq, 40, of 3864 W. 9th., hurtling into an eastbound No. 1 street car and hurling a westbound No. 14 off the rails.

Hero of the accident, and probably responsible for saving many lives, was John Wise, 52, of 3638 Tanner.

Wise, a former tram operator, realizing something was wrong as the tram crashed forward, leapt into the front compartment, butted Dinsmore's paralyzed frame away from the flow of current and then started applying emergency controls.

Radio Station Not Considered

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (CP).—Revenue Minister McCann, in a Commons' return, today informed William Irvine (C.C.F., Cariboo), that the Government has not given consideration to establishing a C.B.C. high-power radio station on the Pacific Coast.

Contract on Roof, Pillars Of Arena Let at $118,315

Contract for construction of the concrete, monolithic roof and supporting pillars of the Memorial Arena was let by the City Council yesterday to Crowley Construction Company Ltd. at $118,315.

The company's offer was nearly $20,000 lower than $138,919 bid by Bennett & White Construction Company Ltd.

The contract provides that the work must be completed by July 14 and the contractor must post a bond of $50,000. A penalty clause provides that the contractor must pay $100 a day for every day after July 14. The city agrees to pay $200 a day for every working day ahead of schedule.

Ald. R. A. C. Dewar, arena chairman, said the offer was within the estimate of C. T. Hemilton, consulting engineer.

The committee has now spent or is committed to expend $170,000, leaving roughly the same amount from the $340,000 set aside.

Four bids were opened yesterday. The B.C. Bridge and Dredging Company Ltd. offered to do the work for a fixed fee of $17,500. Marwell Construction Company offered to complete the work within 150 days for $145,000. Bennett & White offered to finish within 100 working days while Crowley Construction offered to complete the work in 90 working days.

The council adjourned the morning meeting so tend could be studied. Decision to let the contract was reached at a second meeting in the afternoon.

Thieves Force Shop Transom

Staneland Paint Co. Ltd., 810 Fort Street, was broken into at 12:15 a.m. this morning, City Police reported.

The shop was entered by way of the transom, police said, but it was not known whether money or stock had been taken. Sgt. Atkinson is in charge of the investigation.

Compulsory Contribution to Pensions, B.C. Health Insurance Plan Requested

Immediate action by the Provincial Government to draw up a health insurance plan and a scheme of compulsory contributory pensions was urged in the Legislature yesterday by B. T. "Boss" Johnson (Cln., New Westminster).

The workers of this province, he declared, had shown conclusively by their interest in individual schemes they were ready to pay their share of the cost of health.

Mr. Johnson maintained, despite C.C.F. interjections to the contrary, that the Federal Government had committed itself to a share of the cost which, with workers' contribution, would place the province in such a position that health insurance would not cost it a single dollar.

Reviewing Green Book proposals on pensions, the New Westminster member noted that the book contained nothing about compulsory contributary pensions, and urged that the Legislature should do everything in its power to educate opinion all across Canada.

"Public opinion is unanimous that we aren't doing the right thing for our old people," he said, adding that by the next session of the House at the latest there should be a new scheme fully lined up. In the long run, a contributory plan would save the country millions of dollars and everyone would enjoy the same privileges as those in the civil service and other occupations with superannuation schemes in operation.

Better salaries and wages for public works employees also were urged by Mr. Johnson. Those in the lower brackets, he contended, should be paid at least as high wages as those paid in private industry. Those in high executive positions should receive salaries commensurate with the huge sums of money of which they had the handling; they should be taken out of the civil service altogether and put on the same basis as members of the Power Commission.

He advocated long-range planning in public works.

Today in the Legislature

2:30 p.m.—Throne Speech debate concludes.

Speakers—Herbert Gargrave (C.C.F., Mackenzie) and Education Minister G. M. Weir.

Committees—Standing Orders and Private Bills, Cedar Room, 9:30 a.m.; Social Welfare and Education, No. 1 Committee Room, 10 a.m.

Anti-Labor Laws Seen by Speaker

WINNIPEG, Feb. 24 (CP).—Any anti-labor legislation passed by the present Republican Congress in the United States probably would be reflected in laws of a similar nature in Canada, Donovan Swailes, C.C.F. member of the Legislature, said here tonight.

The Federal Government's delay in enacting a national labor code was due to a desire to mark time until anti-labor legislation was passed in the United States. It then would bow to pressure of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and incorporate similar laws, he claimed.

Meat Is Short At Parksville

PARKSVILLE, Feb. 24. — A shortage of meat supplies has been in effect here for the past few days. From Saturday over the week-end and yesterday, a small quantity of cold cooked meat and hamburger was all that appeared on the shelves of butcher shops.

Straith Urges Art Gallery, Aquarium, Waterfront Beautification for Capital

Beautification of Victoria's waterfront and the establishment of an art gallery and an aquarium were among the needs of Victoria as becoming the capital city of the Province mentioned by W. T. Straith, K.C. (Cln., Victoria), as the Throne Speech debate drew towards a close in the Legislature yesterday.

These amenities, he suggested, could become a reality when the Legislature implemented the Goldenberg recommendation that the Province should make grants in aid of municipalities as compensation for exemption from municipal taxation on provincially-owned land and improvements.

"We recognize that these Government buildings are a great asset to the community, but we don't think the city should have to carry the whole burden of services without compensation."

Strings should be attached to any grants in aid that might be made, however. The Government should demand a voice in the way in which the money was to be spent, and should insist that it should go towards beautification.

Provincially-owned lands and improvements in Victoria were valued at a total of $3,376,000, which, on the 1946 tax rate, would yield $103,091 if they were taxed, Mr. Straith went on. The city did not ask for the equivalent as a grant in aid, but for a quid pro quo.

When the Provincial Government builds on the property bounded by Government and Belleville Streets, he proposed that it should not put up a plain office building, but that it should erect an edifice in keeping with buildings adjacent to it, with spacious lawns.

Thunderbird Park should not be disturbed.

There should be a native plant garden.

There was need for an art gallery, perhaps on the ground floor of Craigdarroch Castle.

There should be an aquarium as a show window for one of British Columbias major industries.

In the success of Victoria College, the Victoria member saw a good example for the rest of the Province to follow.

Reviewing negotiations last year leading to joint occupation of the Normal School building by that school and Victoria College, Mr. Straith said the time was coming when it would be necessary to make the Normal School a faculty or section of the university.

Reparations Agency Gets Latest Rebuff

BRUSSELS, Feb. 22 (CP).—While German reparations will be one of the major subjects at the Big Four Foreign Ministers' meeting in Moscow, the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency has not been asked to participate.

The agency, which has headquarters here, could be the voice of the middle and smaller powers on this question.

This is the latest rebuff to the agency's year-long efforts to obtain an even flow of reparations from Germany for allocation to member countries which include all Allied belligerents in the European war except Russia and Poland.

During its year of operation, the I.A.R.A. has been frustrated by indecision and procrastination on the part of the Allied Control Council in Berlin. The council has the sole authority to declare such things as German industrial plant surplus to the level of German postwar industry and to make plants available to the agency for allocation.

The Allied council has been unable to agree on a firm level of German industry and the rate of reparations payments has suffered as a result. The question has been tossed to the Moscow conference and meanwhile the I.A.R.A. wallows along, unable to distribute German capital equipment to members who urgently require it for reconstruction and who have strong feelings about their title to do it.

Statistics show that capital equipment released so far by Berlin amount only to 75,000 machines in 139 plants.

I.A.R.A. officials maintain there are 480 plants which could be made available for reparations now from the western zones regardless of any level of industry to be set. They hope to see this much at least freed at Moscow.

They add that the opportunity has been lost to help Allied reconstruction, particularly among the smaller European countries, where aid is most needed.

Price of Eggs May Increase

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (CP). — Trade Minister MacKinnon said today in the Commons he was "quite sure" consideration would be given to increasing the price of eggs to offset a recent jump in the price of wheat used to feed poultry.

He was replying to a question from E. D. Fulton (P.C., Kamloops).

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, replying to George Cruickshank (L., Fraser Valley) and Tom Reid (L., New Westminster), said no arrangement yet had been made for an egg price increase.

Mr. Reid asked whether the price of eggs sold to Britain had been discussed with Hon. John Strachey, British Food Minister, during his visit here last week.

Mr. Gardiner replied that the question of prices of delivery of farm products generally was discussed with Mr. Strachey but added that the British minister naturally did not have authority to come to any decisions.

Posse Seeks Missing Girl

WINKLER, Man., Feb. 24 (CP).—A posse of Winkler farmers and residents sought unsuccessfully today for Betty Peters, 22, missing since she alighted from a bus in that South-Central Manitoba town Saturday night.

Her father, a farmer in the Zion School District near here, notified R.C.M.P. when she failed to reach home. He said she might have attempted to walk the three miles to her home and wandered from the road in sub-zero weather.

Range and Heater Prices Inceased

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (CP).—The Prices Board announced today ceiling price increases of 10 per cent on domestically-produced household electric refrigerators and 7½ per cent on coal and wood ranges and heaters and warm-air furnaces.

The new prices for refrigerators became effective Feb. 18 and for stoves and furnaces Feb. 20.

Board officials said the increase had become necessary following higher costs of components and, in some instances, rising labor costs.

EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 24 (CP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt tonight expressed hope and confidence that nations of the world, by accepting one another's differences but keeping the objectives in view, can draw closer together and benefit mankind.

300 Killed In Wreck

TOKIO, Feb. 25 (Tuesday) (AP).—At least three jammed coaches of a passenger train tumbled down a canyon 30 miles west of Tokio this morning, bringing death or injury to an estimated 300 persons, Kyodo News Agency reported.

Cause of the derailment was not known. The train, of at least six coaches, was operating on a branch line of the main national railways, and was believed packed with the usual early-morning crowd of commuters and urban householders seeking to buy food near country stops.

Usually on such branch lines old coaches are utilized; broken windows are patched with boards, and interior seats removed to provide additional space for standing passengers.

Britain Draws On U.S. Loan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP).—Britain has drawn another $100,000,000 in cash from the $3,750,000,000 credit-loan advanced last July, treasury records showed today.

This brought total withdrawals to $900,000,000 in the seven months since the loan was made.

Mercy Flight Ends Safely

VANCOUVER, Feb. 24 (CP).—Two veteran bush pilots successfully completed a mercy flight into Northern British Columbia to bring a 16-year-old Vanderhoof, B.C., youth to hospital here late today. Vanderhoof is about 340 miles north of Vancouver.

The youth, Ayliffe Carey, suffered severe head and brain injuries Sunday when a .22 calibre rifle discharged while he was unloading it. Flying particles of lead wounded the youth's head. It is believed that several became imbedded in the brain.

Pilots Russ Baker and Jim Lougheed left here last night for Fort St. James, B.C., about 30 miles north of Vanderhoof, and the closest landing strip to the wounded youth. Young Carey, son of Capt. Pat Carey, another veteran bush pilot, was taken to the waiting plane by road and the mercy flight was completed today.

School Teachers Stage Walkout

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 24 (AP).—More than two-thirds of Buffalo's 2,960 public school teachers struck today in the largest teachers' walkout in United States history.

School officials, preparing for a teacher attendance of at least 768, ordered all but 20 of the city's 98 schools closed, leaving 60,000 of Buffalo's 71,000 school-agers without classes.

The strikers are members of the Buffalo Teachers' Federation (independent) which seeks minimum annual pay ranging from $2,400 to $4,000 and immediate $1,025 annual raises.

Current Buffalo scales provide a $1,875 to $2,575 range for elementary teachers and $2,175 to $2,975 for secondary teachers, plus a $300 temporary raise voted by the State Legislature.

Citizens Nab Fleeing Thief

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 24 (CP).—A young man was captured in downtown Windsor today by a group of citizens who gave chase after hearing the screams of two young women who had been robbed of $6,000.

A bag containing the money was stuffed inside a light cloth jacket worn by the captured man.

VANDALS ARE SOUGHT

BURNABY, Feb. 24 (CP).—Vandals who damaged Ocean View Cemetery mausoleum over the week-end are today being sought by Provincial Police. They are said to have gained entrance by smashing a glass panel. Several stained-glass windows were broken, a formaldehyde container was overturned and a record player stolen. Police denied reports that bodies had been disturbed.

RECEIVES ASSURANCE

VERNON, Feb. 24 (CP).—C. A. Hayden, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, said today he had received assurances from Agriculture Minister Gardiner that the Prices Board has taken steps to ensure an adequate supply of egg cases for British Columbia egg producers.

U.N.R.R.A. Locomotive for China

A 150-ton locomotive, one of the 160 locomotives and tenders destined for China under the auspices of the U.N.R.R.A., is being lifted aboard the freighter Beljeanne at Weehawken, N.J. Dealers Fear Coal Shortage

WINNIPEG, Feb. 24 (CP).—Western fuel dealers warned today that another blizzard could cause a serious coal shortage throughout the Prairies, but their gloomy words were offset somewhat by more optimistic predictions from meteorological bureau officials.

The fuel dealers said that because grain had been given rail priority over coal, threatening fuel shortages would develop into actuality if any holdup slowed the small trickle of coal cars allowed on western lines.

Meteorological bureau officials, however, said that there were no present indications of any return of the sweeping snowstorms which tied up western traffic earlier this year.

Snow fell across the central and southern portions of the three Prairie Provinces today, but the fall was generally reported light. A 20-mile-an-hour wind which caused some drifting in Manitoba decreased in velocity further west.

Fuel dealers, meanwhile, were calling for emergency release of boxcars for coal shipments and criticizing the priority granted wheat shipments.

J. R. Brodie, president of two Estevan mines, said that if storms tied up transportation in Saskatchewan again the fuel situation would be far worse than at the height of the recent blizzards.

C. P. Burgess of Winnipeg, member of the Western Fuel Association, said that while fuel dealers had every sympathy with Great Britain's need for wheat, they feared that unless the grain priority order was relaxed somewhat empty coal bins would be inevitable if storms again swept the West.

Fuel dealers in Regina, Winnipeg and other western cities warned that coal reserves were running dangerously low.

Southern Alberta experienced one of the heaviest February snowfalls on record over the week-end, but reports from the area indicated that traffic there was tied up only temporarily.

Fleet Begins War Practice

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 24 (AP).—Twenty-two warships, led by the super-battleship Iowa, sailed from here today to engage in a practice Pacific war that will include an attack on Hawaii.

The flag of Vice-Admiral Alfred E. Montgomery, commander of the First Task Fleet, was flying from the Iowa as the force moved out.

Rear Admiral O. B. Harrison, aboard the carrier Boxer, will command the force in a manoeuvre engagement with a Western Pacific fleet under Rear Admiral Frederick McMahon. They will combine for the Hawaii attack.

Other ships sailing from here, to be joined by the cruiser San Pedro, were the cruiser Tucson and 19 destroyers.

. . Oddities . .

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24 (AP).—Tragically, Eugene Kerr, 19, proved it again.

He was dead today, victim of lighting a match to see if his car's gas tank was dry.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Feb. 24 (AP).—The kids made money out of this week's snowstorm after waiting in vain for snowploughs to open their street.

Six youthful shovel artists went to work clearing the road and the three-foot piles which blocked their street. The job completed, they posted a sign, "Toll 50 Cents," and collected from four automobile drivers.

When a fifth driver offered only 25 cents the kids called it a day.

JAWAGUSHI, Japan, Feb. 23 (AP).—Police here have a new theory.

Each night at headquarters a policeman screams at intervals into a microphone "Robber! Robber!" and a big loudspeaker carries the alarm across the town.

Robbers at work think they've been discovered and run without loot.

Police have found several stolen bicycles and bundles of assorted loot abandoned on streets.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24 (AP).—Police today sought a gunman who robbed and bound two victims and fled with pants afire.

Carlos Whiddon and Guy Mooney said they surrendered $40 and a pistol to an intruder who tied them with a rope and shoved them into a closet. Whiddon added:

"Then, through a crack in the door, we saw him back into the oil stove, scream, and run out the door with his trousers smoking."

Royal Assent Given in Train

ON BOARD ROYAL TRAIN, CAPE PROVINCE, Feb. 24 (Reuters).—For the first time in history a viceroy of India has been appointed by cable and the Royal assent given in a train.

The King's assent to the appointment of Viscount Mountbatten, his cousin, as viceroy in succession to Viscount Wavell, was among other Imperial business transacted on the train now carrying the Royal family on its tour of South Africa, it was learned today. Preliminary arrangements concerning the appointment were made before the King's departure from London.

The King and Queen, accompanied by Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, drove through floral arches and cheering crowds through the streets of George, halfway between Capetown and Port Elizabeth, named after George III as the first town founded in Cape Colony after the British occupation.

From George, the white train wound northwards through stretches of virgin African bush and crossed the Outeniqua Mountains on its way to the ostrich farming and fruit centre of Oudtshoorn, about 200 miles from Capetown, where the Royal family saw something of the production of ostrich feathers, for which the Queen has shown a preference.

Trustees Seek Higher Grants

Revision of the present Provincial schedule of grants for teachers' salaries was urged last night at a meeting of the Southern Vancouver Island Branch of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association.

The revision was asked "in order more nearly to equal the scale of salaries which the school boards must pay teachers as necessitated by present economic conditions."

The resolution was submitted by the Saanich School Board Area 63, and will be presented to the executive of the association.

British Case Against Albania Adjourned After Long Debate

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Feb. 24 (AP).—The United Nations Security Council wrangled for four hours today and then adjourned without any progress in its hearing of the British case against Albania.

The council adjourned the discussion until Thursday after failing to agree on an Australian proposal to turn the case over to a three-man sub-committee for study and a report by next Monday.

[illegible] ain while Russia backed Albania.

Herschel V. Johnson for the United States said his country supported Britain in her contention that Albania was responsible for mine damage to two British warships and the consequent deaths of 44 British sailors in Corfu Channel last October 22.

Albania has disclaimed responsibility.

Andrei Gromyko, Russian delegate, attacked the British charges as "groundless."

Furthermore, Gromyko said, Britain had rejected an Albanian effort to settle the case bilaterally and there was no reason for the Security Council to be discussing it. He said Albania was consistently ignored by Britain in all mine-sweeping arrangements off the Albanian coast.

Gromyko came to the defence of the Soviet satellite after Paul Hasluck of Australia proposed that the council name a sub-committee of three members to sift the evidence and report back next Monday.

Jerzy Michalowski of Poland, who joined Gromyko against Hasluck, proposed that the case be sent to the International Court of Justice. However, he met quick opposition [illegible] Great Britain, who said Michalowski's proposal should have been ruled out of order.

REGINA, Feb. 24 (CP).—Watson Thomson, of Vancouver, former member of Departments of Education in Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, said yesterday if the world could stave off war for ten years there should be no more world wars. Part of the answer is that Canadians have more money to spend. Then, too, there are the returned service men, many of them starting or re-establishing homes of their own.
Another part of the answer is that many Canadian industries which use cotton in their products are again gathering momentum on civilian supplies and are building up their working inventories. Meanwhile our 10,000 workers are doing their utmost to catch up on both civilian and industrial demands.

"From Halifax to Vancouver" Irritates Chamber Head Here

George I. Warren, managing secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, grits his teeth every time he hears the expression "from Halifax to Vancouver," a term generally applied to cover Canada from coast to coast.

His patience snapped recently when the phrase was used by Commentator John Fisher in a radio broadcast. Mr. Fisher's story stressed the fact that Sydney, N.S., was an important city in Canada, and was "farther east than Halifax."

This was altogether too much for Mr. Warren. In a long, but courteous, letter to a Toronto firm sponsoring the commentator, he emphasized the fact Victoria was also an important city of Canada, and that it lies west of Vancouver.

In a reply from Toronto, Mr. Warren was informed yesterday that Mr. Fisher is soon to present a detailed radio story based on Victoria and the Island.

The whole thing is just another step in the issue involving Canada's eastern and western extremities that has been a sore spot with the local Chamber of Commerce, and other Victoria-minded persons, for many years.

Straith Urges House Break From Rules

Victoria's lawyer member of the Legislature, W. T. Straith, K.C., believes it's high time British Columbia broke away from English tradition, at least as far as the reading of speeches in debate in the Legislature is concerned.

Since the session of the House began two weeks ago, there has been a notable increase from earlier years in the number of members who have read prepared speeches—quite obviously.

Mr. Speaker Norman W. Whittaker, K.C., took it in silence until the end of last week, when he pointedly reminded the House about what May on Parliamentary Procedure has to say on the subject.

Yesterday Mr. Straith said he thought there should be some changes made, and that the rules of the House might be brought more into line with the non-professional character of politics in this country.

The rules referred to by Mr. Speaker, he pointed out, had been made for the British House of Commons in an era when politics was regarded as a profession, for which young men were trained from youth.

"We have a more democratic system here," he remarked, pointing out that many members came to the Legislature without any political grounding. Indeed, were often thrust into the House by their constituencies without ever previously giving a thought to a political career.

Suggests Province Help Fishermen In Purchases

The cause of British Columbia's fishermen was championed in the Legislature yesterday by W. H. Brett (C.C.F., Prince Rupert).

Mr. Brett said independent fishermen were up against a tough proposition in attempting to find capital for new gear in what was becoming a highly scientific occupation. With no other sources of capital open to them, they were forced to go to the big fishery companies, which financed them only on condition that the whole of the catch was sold to the companies.

To give these independent fishermen a better chance, Mr. Brett urged that a scheme of provincial assistance in the purchase of gear should be evolved. He expressed a hope that elevation of fisheries to departmental status would result in better administration.

Of proposals to extend the Pacific Great Eastern Railway he had only one thing to say: that the logical outlet for the northern area was Prince Rupert and not Squamish. It would be much sounder economy to develop secondary industries closer to the natural resources themselves, he pointed out, and Prince Rupert offered all the facilities needed.

He described the $5 increase in pension bonuses as "just a palliative to make them less vociferous in their demands for a decent pension," and said the time had come to consider pensioners as human beings, instead of a cost factor in administration.

Six Persons Receive Injuries In Week-End Accidents in City

Four persons were injured and a fifth suffered a heart attack when an automobile and a street car collided at the intersection of Government and Humboldt Streets shortly after 7 p.m. Sunday, a city police report stated.

Those injured, all occupants of the car, were A. E. Williams, 4 Shelbourne Street; Emma and Madelaine Mills, 1342 Bay Street, and Roger Hubbard, 331 Quebec Street.

Mrs. A. McKay, Metropolis Hotel, a passenger in the street car, suffered a heart attack and was removed to the home of her son.

According to police the Williams car was proceeding west on Humboldt Street and stopped on the street car tracks to allow a car to pass south on Government Street. The street car, in charge of Joseph Belton, 2387 Estevan Avenue, also going south on Government Street, struck the automobile broadside and pushed it for some distance, the police report stated.

The automobile was extensively damaged.

Passengers were treated at the Royal Jubilee Hospital for cuts and bruises.

In an accident yesterday near the Quadra Street School, two eight-year-old boys received painful injuries to their faces, heads and hands when they jumped from the back of a truck when the vehicle was still in motion, police reported.

Robert J. Streeton, 3271 Quadra Street, and Walter Dakers, 3276 Quadra Street, both were treated at the Royal Jubilee Hospital where they were taken by city and Saanich police.

The boys had been given a ride to school in a truck driven, police said, by N. Holland, R.R. 3, and had jumped from the vehicle while the driver was slowing it to a stop.

Member Urges Sound Basis For Settlement

While mention was made in the Speech from the Throne on a new land settlement policy, it was to be hoped that the new scheme would be based on sound lines and not on the haphazard schemes of former years, declared E. F. Rowland, (C.C.F., Omineca) in the House yesterday.

Mr. Rowland had in mind the two largest land settlement areas of the province, the Peace River area and the district lying west from Prince George to Smithers.

Community settlement must be basic in policy with first comers surrounding a centre with modern conveniences and a co-operative marketing set-up, he said. Settlers must be served with roads, schools, hospitals and other services. No longer could land settlement be handled properly through the Lands Department alone. It required the co-operation, the assistance and the advice of several Governmental departments.

Spring Flowers Going to Winnipeg To Prove Victoria City of Sunshine

If anyone in the world makes a disparaging remark about the climate or anything else about Victoria, there is one man who will quickly accept it as a challenge. He is George I. Warren, commissioner of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

Mr. Warren has been defending the good name, weather and beauty of this city for years, and yesterday he was up in arms again.

[illegible] editorial clipped from a Winnipeg paper. It read to the effect that all the Prairie holiday-makers who came to Victoria (and Vancouver) must be "feeling very much at home."

"The first Spring flowers they hoped to find," said the clipping, "are under a blackout—or should we say whiteout? The golf courses where they expected to putt the ball on verdant greens are good for sleigh riding.

"However," concludes the editorial, "we are assured the snow never lies on the Coast. Perhaps only the natives do."

BOX OF FLOWERS QUICKLY DISPATCHED

It was a case of carrying a gag too far, thought Mr. Warren, and so he sent members of his staff to Oak Bay Golf Course and to Beacon Hill to gather some Spring flowers—a pansy, some crocuses, primroses, stocks, plum blossom and snowdrops. Placed attractively in a box, they were quickly dispatched by air mail yesterday afternoon to the editor of the Winnipeg paper.

With the absolute proof of Spring was sent a letter in which it was pointed out members of the Victoria Golf Club played on the greens of Oak Bay golf course "every day this Winter with the exception of three—January 13, 14 and 15."

"In fact," the reply continued, "the grass on the fairways is now growing so fast the golf club is buying a new tractor to deal with it."

Not satisfied that enough information had been presented, Mr. Warren also added that "snowdrops were out in the middle of December, crocuses have been blooming since the beginning of January and early primroses blossomed here toward the end of that month."

If the publicity bureau commissioner had wanted to, he could also have added a P.S.—the highest temperature in blizzard-bound Winnipeg yesterday was 21 degrees. In Victoria it was 54 degrees.

Mr. Warren is looking forward to the Winnipeg editor's acknowledgment of the flowers from sunny Victoria—"unless his hands are too cold to write or type!"

Use of Poison For Wolves Is Suggested

To meet the increasing menace of predatory animals to British Columbia farmers, particularly those in the northern regions, E. F. Rowland (C.C.F., Omineca), recommended in the Legislature yesterday that use of poisoned bait should be legalized.

"Not indiscriminately, of course," he hastened to add, "but hunters of predatory animals should be allowed to use it under Government supervision. Used in this manner, the loss of other forms of wild life, with the exception of foxes, would be negligible. It would be far better to lose the foxes than our big game."

The young veteran of Northwest Europe was chiefly concerned about the inroads being made by wolves and coyotes on the deer, moose and caribou of the up-country regions, last remaining hunters' paradise in North America. Settlers in all parts of the area, he said, told of wolves not running singly but in packs of as many as 15.

So far, damage done by wolves and coyotes to domestic animals was not great, but more and more reports were coming in of their activities among cattle, sheep and poultry, with one rancher near Vanderhoof losing 21 lambs out of 60.

Increase in the bounty on wolves was not in itself a solution, Mr. Rowland maintained. More use must be made of hunters—men trained and equipped to handle the job and paid an adequate salary.

He urged the Government to increase the bounty on coyotes to $5 and to pay it throughout the year, instead of dropping it during the trapping season.

ALPINE CLUB

Major Rex Gibson, with the aid of colored kodachrome slides, gave an address to the Victoria Section of the Alpine Club of Canada Saturday night in the Little Centre.

Three subjects were dealt with in Major Gibson's address — Winter skiing in the Upper Yoho Valley; Summer mountaineering in the Bugaboo Valley of the Purcell Range, and a short visit to Mount Robson.

Most of the slides were of the Bugaboo icefield and the difficulties involved in climbing in the hazardous terrain.

South Africa's Guests

As the Royal tour proceeds in South Africa, scenes enacted in Canada in 1939 are being repeated over and over again. Their Majesties, on their first postwar tour on Commonwealth territory outside of the United Kingdom, are being given an ovation at every stopping point. Capetown, where the King and Queen landed, with the Princesses, set the pattern with the heartiest public demonstration that has ever been witnessed there. It is the same account at each successive point along the route of the Royal tour. South Africa, with holiday weather, is giving a warm-hearted welcome to Their Majesties.

As the Royal tour continues it is reviving memories of the unforgettable scenes that were witnessed in Canada shortly before the outbreak of the World War. All that has happened since has served only to endear Their Majesties in the esteem and affection of the people of the British Empire in its every part. The endurance of the Royal Family, the leadership of the King in a time of Commonwealth peril, the courage of his gracious Consort and their gallant refusal to leave the United Kingdom even at the height of the siege, have all made an indelible impression on the minds of their loyal subjects.

Bound by light ties in a written way, the British Empire has always rallied to two great stimuli. One has been the threat of peril, and the other is the common bond expressed for most people by the Throne. It is the second, and the happy, occasion which is moving the people of South Africa today to express in such a warm-spirited and wholehearted manner their admiration for Their Majesties, and the two Royal Princesses who are having a first official look at a sister land, the Union of South Africa. In many a Canadian home the reports will cause the triumphant Royal tour in Canada to be recalled with many a pleasant memory.

Veterans Stand Down

Next month the official disbandment will take place of a fine and faithful body of men, the Veterans' Guard of Canada. Only a few hundred remain in uniform of the 10,000 active service officers and men who served the corps at the peak of its strength, and in a few weeks they, too, will have received their discharges. This wartime group of older volunteers will then go out of existence. They will leave an excellent record.

It is greatly to the credit of veterans of the Great War that they were eager to serve in its successor. The second call to a national emergency found them no less anxious than before to don the uniform of their country. In many cases, of course, the flesh was weaker than the spirit, and rejections were numerous. Some ignored their birth certificates in attempts to serve alongside their sons. It has been computed that no fewer than 50,000 of the veterans of 1914-18 managed to serve again in some unit between 1939 and 1946. That speaks volumes for a patriotic and willing spirit.

The Veterans' Guard itself came into being, appropriately enough, on Empire Day, May 25, 1940, and as an Empire call to arms it found ready response. The old soldiers of another generation lined up prepared to serve anywhere. Primarily their duties were to protect military property and thus relieve younger men for service on the battle line. Many veterans of the corps went overseas to aid in important duties. They guarded bridges, power plants, airports, as well as supervising prisoner of war camps. In remote areas of the Dominion they "stood to," doing their "bit" again with typical competence.

Now they are about to "stand down," and they deserve the thanks of Canada. When it is remembered that actually, although not officially, the ages of these men ran from 40 to 65 years, the faithful performance of the tasks assigned to them is a tribute to their high sense of duty. The Veterans' Guard of Canada served this country well.

Nazi Roundup

While spectacular accounts of a secret bacteriological weapon in their possession may be taken with considerable reservation, the necessity for the roundup of Nazi underground groups in the British and American zones of Germany is not entirely unexpected. It was a foregone conclusion that subversive movements would be carried on by the more fanatical elements of Germany during the occupation. The surprise, in fact, is that these have not been noticeable on a greater scale than has hitherto prevailed. Presumably occupational authorities have managed to keep a fairly tight grip on the trouble makers.

In spite of the boast of one group that it possessed a secret "germ" weapon, this aspect of their activities need not assume undue importance. Biological study and experiment are not carried on easily under occupation, and it is apparent the underground movement has been observed carefully by the Allies for several months. All that was awaited was the right moment to strike. The arrests have been illuminating. They comprise mainly ranking S.S. officers, of the type from whom most of the resistance to occupational measures could be anticipated. Like those captured in a similar raid a year ago, they were "Hitler's men."

Of all the formations raised by Hitler the S.S. organizations were the most pugnacious. They were composed of the younger section of the German population whose thoughts had been moulded in fixed patterns along Nazi lines. Those who remain are among the least likely to accept the concept of a new Germany, one purged of extreme nationalistic and militaristic ambitions. They form the fanatical fringe with which the Allied powers have to contend in the political reconstruction of the German Reich. Sunday's round-up should aid in keeping their activites at a minimum.

End of the Trail

The long trail of wily diplomacy in which Franz von Papen was a past-master has come to an end, and by the action of his own people. The former Hitler aide, whose Machiavellian cunning enabled the Nazis to succeed in many of their evil designs, was sentenced yesterday by a German denazification court to eight years at hard labor. At his age, 68 years, this is tantamount to a life sentence. In addition, he was ordered stripped of his personal fortune.

Von Papen was acquitted by the International Military Tribunal which sent ten Nazi leaders to the gallows. Non-Nazi Germans promptly rearrested him for trial in accordance with the denazification program. His plea was the same as that of most of the high-ranking bullies who sought to throw all the blame on the man they once fawned upon and served with marked devotion. He was helpless to oppose Hitler, he said. It fell upon deaf ears, so much so that Von Papen wept because no one would believe him.

There will be few, if any, other tears shed on his behalf. The former Reichchancellor and ambassador has a long record of tortuous duplicity, stemming back to the Great War. He occupied many high posts, but in the sum total of his accomplishments he served humanity ill. There is therefore poetic justice in his conviction at the hands of his own countrymen. One by one these principal exponents of the Nazi regime are meeting with their just deserts.

St. John Ambulance

The drive of the St. John Ambulance Association, in its first public appeal in Canada for funds to carry on a highly essential service to the nation, has been extended into March as the objective originally set has not been reached. In the Greater Victoria area, this will afford an opportunity to those who have not yet done so to contribute their help. First aid training conducted by the Order has meant much to Canada in the past, and it remains one of the most useful services that can be perpetuated today. This is still a frontier land, with many people living beyond the reach of ordinary medical, surgical or hospital care. The ability to give intelligent help in cases of emergency should be part of the equipment for life of every Canadian individual. While that ideal may not easily be reached, a continuation of such training is vital to this country and important to everyone in it. The modest sum sought within the environs of Greater Victoria could be subscribed in a single day.

Seen in Passing

Winnipeg, it seems, finds it hard to believe that flowers are blooming in Victoria in the world's hardest Winter in forty years. Yet it is so. Visitors in town from many points on the Continent long ago have stopped counting the varieties in bloom. They counted up to a dozen, perhaps, and then Spring, with its rush, overtook them. We like the gesture of the Victoria Publicity Bureau in sending flowers by air express to the doubting Thomases. Seeing is believing. As a matter of fact, Victoria left Winter behind ten days ago, and has enjoyed a normal, sunny Spring since.

Pedestrian traffic downtown would be cleared materially if citizens would observe the rule to walk on the right-hand side of the sidewalk, to step aside from the traffic lane when they wish to stop to talk, and to move in unison with the stream when it is flowing. A community designed for 50,000 people now has double that number, with a fair proportion of them using city sidewalks and city streets during daylight hours. A little give and take is necessary, and a little more observance of the common-sense rules of the road.

Spring's Saraband

Over the hills of April
With soft winds in hand,
Impassionate and dreamy-eyed
Spring leads her saraband.
Her garments float and gather
And swirl along the plain,
Her headgear is the golden sun,
Her cloak the silver rain.

With colour and with music,
With perfumes and with pomp,
By meadowland and upland,
Through pasture, wood, and swamp
With promise and enchantment
Leading her mystic mime,
She comes to lure the world anew
With joys as old as time . . .

O heart, hear thou the summons,
Put every grief away,
When all the motley masques of earth
Are glad upon a day.
Alack that any mortal
Should less than gladness bring
Into the choral joy that sounds
The saraband of Spring!

Vote Or Else!

Frank M. Kelley

There are a few still living in Canada who may not have been old enough to vote when voting by secret ballot was first adopted by Canada's second or third parliament, but they had had some schooling, such as it was. That would be in the early eighteen-thirties, within a few years of Confederation.

Of course the writer doesn't know much of those days, except through word of mouth passed on by elders who had participated in "open" voting and had played some part in securing about reform in the Elections Act. History of those times are also fairly explicit in describing how everyone knew who the voter voted for, of vote buying, of ballot boxes being "stuffed," stolen and destroyed, all for the benefit of candidate or party.

The fight to break a practice which permited two days of open voting at such dates and in such ridngs as the government of the day deemed of most advantage to themselves was not "won in a walk." Quoting "Political Annals of Canada," it states: "They usually selected government strongholds for the first elections in order to gain prestige as the elections progressed. On the occasion of the first Dominion elections a period of six weeks elapsed between the dates of the first and last contests."

Their fathers having battled for what was considered the greatest blessing in the gift of democracy—the secret ballot—it has been the privilege of Canadians since the early 70's to go to the polls and vote for the man or party considered best to represent them in Parliament. If the individual did not want to vote, it was also his privilege to stay away from the poll. Somebody has said those two privileges "comprise the most lasting threads in the warp and woof of the democratic cloth."

APATHY DEPLORABLE

No doubt well-intentioned folk, troubled over the apathy of the public at large towards policies of political parties, major and minor, would like to devise ways and means for remedying a condition which, in spite of appeals—personal, platform, press and radio—attract but little interest at times to matters which might well be of importance to every man, woman and child in the country. This lack of interest in things political, seeing that policies do affect all people, is to be deplored. But will compulsory voting make for a solution or remedy this great ill of the body politic?

Curious-like, the writer set out some weeks ago to find out in a small way what the average man old enough to vote thought about having to go to the poll whether he wanted to or not. Those whom I happened to meet and query were of the opinion the proposed remedy would probably prove worse than the affliction. Here are some of the replies, all of which were given with the understanding no names would be mentioned. This by the way, is always a fear when politics are discussed by some.

"If such a fantastic solution to a deplorable situation is really sought by legislators and by any unlucky chance is amended into the Elections Act, it will tend to promote much more fantastic ills than it is intended to cure. It means the man or woman who is certain of being penalized for not voting can go to a poll, secure a ballot, take it into a booth, mark it not necessarily for any candidate or group of candidates, and drop it into the ballot box to be later counted as a spoiled ballot.

"That is what I would feel justified in doing, instead of voting for a candidate, party or policies which did not fit into my own idea of the fitness of things. You can quote the old saying: 'You can take a horse to water but you cannot make it drink.' This still holds good and is applicable to the compulsory voting suggestion. Me, I'm an old horse."

MAJORITY OPEN-MINDED

There was more along the same line, although all agreed it was too unfortunate some people thought so little of the great medium they controlled to keep the body politic healthy—the secret ballot—but at the same time they could not justify the suggestion of compulsion. Possessing it, there is not always the incentive to use the ballot. The majority of voters are not hidebound partisans, they are open-minded, and it is the silent vote, as it has been called, that puts governments out of business when enough silent voters consider it is time to give another party the opportunity to put their policies into action. That is when the non-party voter cherishes his privilege.

Whether it is far-reaching or not, it is worth thinking about, what one man had to state about the lack of interest displayed at the polls. He said, "Why should I, especially when I am continually reminded of what a great writer once said relative to patronage and spoils of victory—You have probably heard it. 'Politics, the madness of the many for the gain of the few.' Why should an otherwise well-balanced citizen get overexcited unless he is personally satisfied as to the fitness of a candidate for public office, when he has had no part in nominating the candidate, sometimes the choice of secret cabals or opportunist cliques? Let the candidates be chosen in open meeting. Then everyone who can will go to the polls on polling day."

British Designers Study Sonic Air Barrier

By E. C. SHEPHERD
London Sunday Times Aviation Expert
North American Newspaper Alliance

LONDON, Feb. 24. — Flying by British jet fighters in various parts of the world has become so much a matter of course that some onlookers are probably surprised at the lack of lavish forecasts of things to come.

Two types of jet fighters are to be found at present in the Royal Air Force, and in large numbers. There were, for instance, 60 Gloster Meteors in the Victory Day fly-past last June and there were nearly as many De Havilland Vampires. Both types should be leading on to something more advanced, yet no one has assured the world that new models are to come.

Judging by the aircraft that were shown by British aircraft manufacturers at Radlett last September, visitors might have concluded that British fighters were not yet ready to move to the speed of sound. The D.H. 108, with its wings swept back at an angle of 45 degrees, gave the impression of being the fastest thing in the show. But a still newer jet fighter was also shown and that did not have swept-back wings.

In the Vickers jet fighters the wings were orthodox in form, although they were thin. The fuselage was slim and the air intakes on each side were so carefully faired into it that one doubted their ability to gather the enormous quantities of air needed by so powerful a gas turbine. Since that display took place, the D.H. 108 disintegrated in the air at a speed well above the Meteor's world speed record of 618 m.p.h. Are these two facts to be set side by side and is the obvious deduction to be drawn?

Had British designers already turned away from swept-back wings before the R.H. 108 was broken and did that accident merely confirm a tendency already accepted? If that were the fact, had Britain abandoned the attempt to advance to the sonic barrier or resolved to approach it more gradually by less radical means? If so, a great deal more power would be needed to overcome the drag of wings of orthodox shape. That might be available in astonishing measure.

There is still room to doubt whether the world understands the lead established by British gas turbines for the purposes of jet propulsion. The Rolls-Royce Derwent, for instance, is rated at 2,400 pounds of static thrust, but is probably capable of powers around 4,000 pounds. Last year it was given full Winter tests in a Meteor in Canada at average daily temperatures of minus 35 deg. centigrade. About the same time in another Meteor it was given tropical tests in the Sudan in daily temperatures of plus 25 deg. C. A few months later it was test flown at a height of 45,000 feet.

The period between turbine overhauls in the R.A.F. is now set at 270 hours and a high level of service as well as of power output has been attained. And while the R.A.F. has been proving them, the engineers and designers of four British companies have been developing them. A lot more power than the 4,000 pounds of the Derwent has been in sight for some time. If the aircraft designer wants more power to drive his orthodox wings he can expect to have it delivered before long. What he could not be sure of would be the sonic problems of the orthodox wings.

At 618 m.p.h. the Meteor was beginning to meet those difficulties. A percentage of power which its Derwents could have delivered was not used. It would have added nothing noticeable to the speed. If it had been sufficient to increase the speed it would probably have made the Meteor unstable by creating the shock waves and the other strange phenomena of compressed air about the wings and control surfaces. That kind of dilemma is likely to present itself to straight-wing aircraft at lower speeds than in aircraft with swept-back wings. This applies only to speeds below the speed of sound. At speeds above 90 per cent of the speed of sound, the swept-back wing has no inherent advantage.

For the present, therefore, piloted aircraft are concerned with speeds between 620 m.p.h. and about 675 m.p.h. In Britain small pilotless aircraft will soon be carrying on full-scale research through the sonic barrier to speeds between 800 and 900 m.p.h., and they should help to show us the devices necessary to get through the barrier without complete loss of control. That may well be a slow process. Fighters will probably have power in their new turbines which they can use to the full only on the climb and not in level flight.

The thought of power which cannot be used in pursuit is anathema to the airman. He is bound, therefore, while he waits for supersonic speeds, to demand as much speed as his power will allow. Whereas the service Meteor today is capable of about 600 to 620 m.p.h., there is a possibility of level speeds of about 660 m.p.h., provided the peculiarities of the swept-back wing can be resolved. Before the World War ended, the Germans had designs for a gas turbine of 8,000 pound static thrust. Britain's engine designers are known to be working forward to turbines of high output.

If, as seems likely, the power is forthcoming, British aircraft designers will have to continue the work already begun on swept-back wings. The D.H. 108 was a swept-back version of the Vampire. The degree of sweep-back may have represented too big a leap forward. But there seems no good reason why other jet fighters should not try the effect of a gentle sweep-back on drag and compressibility. That is logical assumption. I expect to see a continuation of the work along these lines, and, as British turbines become more powerful, I look for fighters capable of expressing that extra power in terms of level speed.

East-West, of course, were "saving" when they bid up to five diamonds, and as a matter of fact, they would have done well if they had been permitted to play that contract, going down only 500 points as against the laydown vulnerable game for North-South. South diagnosed the situation correctly, and when North made a forcing pass over five diamonds, South refused to double in favor of trying for game.

West opened the club king, and East signalled for a come-on with the jack. After taking the blank ace, South drew trumps in two leads, then with the apparent thought that his only salvation lay in finding one defender with the blank king-queen of hearts, to limit the loss in that suit, he cashed the heart ace and led a second round. The extremely improbable break he hoped for failed to materialize—West took the heart lead and exited with a club—and there was no way for declarer to avoid the loss of two tricks in hearts and one in diamonds.

The far better chance for the contract lay along different lines. A favorable heart position was required—but not nearly so favorable as South hoped for. Proper play was to ruff dummy's clubs, as well as drawing trumps, and then to cash the heart ace. Now, when a second heart was led, if West had started with king-small, queen-small, or even king-queen-small, he would be forced to lead away from his diamond king, or give South a ruff and discard by returning another club.

COMPULSORY VOTING

Sir,—On the subject of compulsory voting, there will be doubtless many different opinions. People, by and large, today are becoming accustomed to compulsion in one form or other, as to be mostly "driven sheep"! But there still remains the truth of the old saying "You can take a horse to water; you cannot make him drink." So in the case of being compelled to go to the polls, all one need do is go and spoil one's ballot so that it is worthless; a course open to all who resent, and rightly, this continual regimentation and Hitlerism in our so-called democracy.

MRS. S. C. BEESON.

R. R. 2, Duncan, V.I., February 20, 1947.

COMPULSORY VOTING

Sir,—In a free and democratic country there can be no such thing as compulsory voting, whatever is done in Australia notwithstanding. The very idea of compulsory voting is ludicrous in the extreme and reminds one of the old English proverb: "You may lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink."

Supporters of the idea have referred to the sanctity of the ballot, but in a country where the ballot is supposed to be secret, if this iniquitous legislation is passed, sanctity of the ballot will cease to exist and it will be interesting to learn just what form of clairvoyance will be used to discover who have voted and who have not, or is it intended to adopt the method employed in some European countries?

A certain member of the Legislative Assembly is concerned about the Change of Name Act." If compulsory voting is introduced he need not worry himself because his name will not matter. He will be another number, like the rest of us.

Personally, I have not failed to vote at every election held in this city since I was qualified to do so and if it is the intention of the legislators to force me, with threats of punishment, to attend at the polling booth, I will of course continue to attend, but whether I vote or not after arriving there, is a matter between my conscience and myself, unless I am forced to do so at the end of a tommygun.

In conclusion I would like to paraphrase the above-mentioned proverb: "You may drive a person to the polls but you can't make him vote."

LITTLE FEDERAL HELP

Sir,—At last Ottawa has announced what it intends to do in regard to old age pensions. The relief to be given is meagre indeed, in fact in most cases it will amount to nothing. However, there is one point this is important—by raising the allowable income other than pension to $500, or even $400, the Government has admitted that the pension of $30 a month which we are seeking is not excessive.

This week a call will be issued by the newly-formed Old Age Pensions Council asking all organizations to affiliate in order to co-ordinate the effort that is being put forward to improve conditions of Canada's aged. In view of the fact that the relief granted by the Province is only temporary and that Ottawa apparently does not intend to increase the pension rate, it is to be hoped that the response to the coming appeal will be united.

Publicity Secretary, Branch No. 4 Old Age Pensioners' Organization of British Columbia, Victoria, February 22, 1947.

Commercial Rentals Freed From Control

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (CP).—The Government today announced steps freeing holiday resort accommodation and some commercial rentals from rent controls and permitting a 25 per cent boost in the rentals of all other types of commercial accommodation.

Boarding houses and hotels in Victoria cannot by any stretch of the imagination be termed as "holiday resorts" or "tourists resorts" under the new order, J. D. Gunn, Prices Board rentals administrator, said here last night.

"The order refers to places like Qualicum Beach and other seasonal Summer resorts," he said. "Auto courts, for example, will no longer have ceilings on prices providing they are only used in the Summer. Year 'round accommodation, he said, would disqualify them under the distinction."

The changes, announced in the Commons by Finance Minister Abbott and effective March 1, have no effect on individual housing accommodation, which remains unchanged at present ceilings.

Some modification is made in eviction control to permit landlords who bought tenanted houses between November 1, 1944, and July 25, 1945, to occupy those homes if they can prove need.

The major steps are these:

1. Rooms in holiday resort hotels or holiday resort boarding houses where the principal business is catering to people on vacation are being released from rent control.

2. Commercial accommodation which is offered for rent for the first time, or which now is vacant or hereafter becomes legally vacant or which is sublet in whole is being released from control.

3. Commercial accommodation will be released from rental control in cases where the landlord and the tenant negotiate a lease agreeable to both parties for a minimum term of three years.

4. On all other commercial accommodation, the maximum rental may be increased by 25 per cent provided the landlord is prepared to enter into a lease for a minimum term of two years. If the tenant refuses, he may be required to vacate at the end of the present lease and the accommodation thereafter will be free from control.

The eviction modification deals with landlords who purchased a tenanted house between November 1, 1944, and July 25, 1945,—when all leases were "frozen"—in the "justifiable" belief that they would be entitled to obtain occupancy after serving notice on the tenant.

Under the change, the landlord will be given an opportunity of proving to a court of rental appeals that he needs the house more than the tenant needs it, in which event he will be permitted to give the tenant three months notice to vacate.

The release of holiday resort accommodation from control does not apply to Summer houses, tourist cabins and similar accommodation which, during the present housing shortage, are being used as permanent housing by non-transients. These remain under present ceilings.

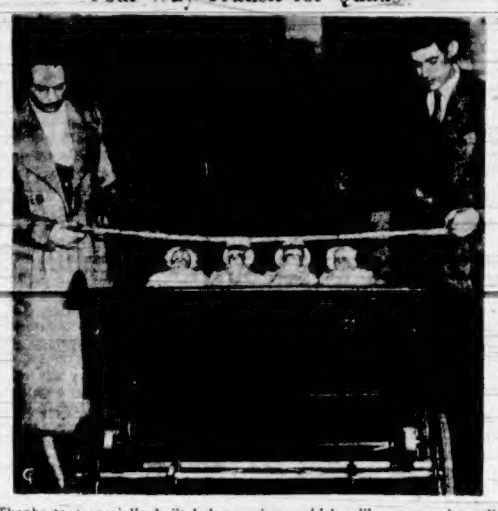

Under the provision allowing a 25 per cent increase in commercial rentals when a two-year lease is negotiated, this new lease may be terminated by the tenant at any time on 30 days' notice but will be binding on the landlord for the full two-year term.

If the landlord is not prepared to offer such a lease to the tenant, the tenant may remain in occupancy after the expiration of his current lease as a tenant from month to month at the previous rental ceiling.

A Prices Board statement released following Mr. Abbott's announcement in the Commons said special two-year lease forms now are available at the board offices across Canada and stressed that no other form of lease may be used.

The new provision does not interfere with current leases unless mutually agreeable to the landlord and the tenant.

Probe of Super-Stratosphere Of High Value, Canadians Say

War-developed methods enabling man to probe the super-stratosphere will prove of great value in the next 10 years, Dr. P. M. Millman, astronomer at the Dominion Observatory, Ottawa, predicts.

Dr. R. M. Petrie of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Saanich, threw further light on the subject last night. He says that "high frequency radiation" developed from radar methods is being sent into the upper atmosphere above 10 miles. The height at which this high frequency radiation is sent back to the earth distinguishes the degree of ionization and the layers of the atmosphere.

This method was first described by Sir Ernest Appleton who also played a key part in the development of radar, according to Dr. Petrie.

This high frequency radiation has determined that the heights of the various layers of atmosphere vary from day to night and gives further information about the 11-year cycle of sun spots.

Dr. Petrie said that it was quite possible for this newly developed radiation sent at high frequencies into the atmosphere to give important information on radio reception and also to give information on the activities of magnetic storms and Solar activities.

It is also possible, Dr. Petrie says, that this new method of radiation study will bring long-range weather forecasts giving the general climate forecasts for a ye.r. These "climate" forecasts would be able to determine whether a country would have a dry, wet, or an average year of weather.

Dr. Petrie feels that this study of the atmosphere by high frequency radiation would give important information which will benefit radio reception and transmission. Its use may also add further knowledge necessary for strato-flying.

Air Commands to Be Reduced Defence Minister Tells House

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (CP). — The peacetime set-up of the three regular Canadian forces became clearer today with announcement that the R.C.A.F. is reducing its present five commands to two in a reorganization which follows that announced recently by the army.

Defence Minister Claxton, in a statement also giving a broad picture of air force activities in the present year, disclosed that Trenbecome the only two command headquarters in the country and that existing commands at Halifax, Winnipeg and Vancouver will be reduced to group headquarters under these two.

The army abolished the traditional district system and established a network of five commands with six area headquarters under them. The Navy has headquarters at Halifax and Esquimalt, B.C.

Mr. Claxton said the R.C.A.F. move was aimed at consolidating administrative staff services to ensure economical supervision of the force in its peacetime role and was aimed, too, at increased efficiency.

The present No. 1 air command at Trenton becomes central air command and will include the former eastern air command at Halifax which becomes No. 10 group. At Edmonton, northwest air command retains that name and will embrace No. 11 group at Winnipeg, the former No. 2 command, as well as No. 12 group, Vancouver, the former western air command.

The group headquarters will be responsible for training and operational activities within their own boundaries while the commands will supervise administration.

Big names affected by the shifts included:

Air Vice-Marshal K. M. Guthrie, former head at Winnipeg, who takes over the northwest command at Edmonton.

Air Commodore R. C. Gordon, northwest chief who goes to Washington as liaison officer.

Air Commodore Martin Costello, chief staff officer at Vancouver, takes over command of No. 11 group at Winnipeg.

Air Commodore J. L. Plant remains as chief at Vancouver.

Mr. Claxton said the decision to enlist 75 per cent or 12,000 men of the approved establishment, had made it possible to concentrate a number of training units. This added to the reorganization, would result in closing some stations.

These included the manning depot at Portage la Prairie, Man., which would probably be closed sometime this year.

Other units at various stations would be closed but this remained to be worked out. They would include the seaplane training school at Patricia Bay.

Upward Surge In U.S. Prices

CHICAGO, Feb. 24 (AP).—All-time high prices for pork-on-the-hoof today highlighted an upward surge in prices which spread throughout United States commodity markets.

Participating in the broad advance, in addition to hogs and other meat animals, were grains, cotton, eggs and silver.

With supplies of porkers at livestock markets running unusually low, quotations shot up in spectacular fashion. At Chicago, hog-butchering capital of the world, a top of $29 a 100 pounds was paid.

Pork loins jumped $3 to $4 a 100 pounds, while other pork cuts were up $1 to $2.

Grain for future delivery on the Chicago Board of Trade spurted in an active market. All wheat contracts sold above $2 a bushel. Winter wheat now in the ground was bringing the highest price on record at Chicago for midwinter.

Wheat futures closed 4 to 8¼ cents a bushel higher, March $2.36⅝, and corn 4⅜ to 5¼ cents a bushel higher, March $1.42½.

Russ Jeter, pork market specialist for the United States Agriculture Department, said the jump in live hog and wholesale pork prices may result in pork chops as high as $1 a pound in retail butcher shops.

Marvin Henning of the Agriculture Department said the decline in hog receipts had been expected, but that "it appears to be a little more acute than generally anticipated."

Hog receipts at 12 principal livestock markets today totaled only 34,700 head, compared with 64,200 head a year ago.

Grain Dealers Wait for Cars

VANCOUVER, Feb. 24 (CP).—Grain dealers in Vancouver looked forward expectantly tonight for the scheduled arrival of 122 grain cars from Alberta as the big terminal elevators at this West Coast port remained almost empty.

Arrival of the grain is expected to relieve the growing harbor congestion here, where 14 grain ships are waiting for cargo for shipment to the United Kingdom. Another four vessels are now loading grain.

Lumber officials reported today that the national shortage of railway boxcars had resulted in the closure of a few sawmills in the British Columbia interior, and a large number of mills may be forced to shut down until the situation is relieved. "The mills, geared to capacity production in an effort to meet heavy export and housing demands for lumber, lack storage space for finished lumber.

Russia Trains Korean Troops

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP).—Lt.-Gen. John R. Hodge said today that there appears to be "something to" reports that the Russians are organizing and training Korean troops.

The commander of American occupation troops in Southern Korea made this statement to reporters, in response to questions, after a White House conference with President Truman.

He also said that efforts to lift the Russian "iron curtain" in Korea had been unsuccessful.

General Hodge was accompanied to the White House by Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson.

He said he gave President Truman an "overall report" on the situation in Korea.

Asked by reporters how the Russians were co-operating with the Americans, he replied:

"There's no change in the behavior." He said the situation was "no more favorable" today than it has been right along.

"Then the iron curtain still exists?" a reporter asked. The general replied in the affirmative.

Hodge has just returned from Korea for consultations with the War and State Department.

Pribilof Seals Bring Million

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (CP).—The Canadian Government may earn more than $1,000,000 as a result of 1946 sales of seals from the Pribilof Islands and adjacent Bering Sea in the Northern Pacific Ocean.

The Pribilof herd—estimated at 3,386,000 seals— is hunted on a joint participation agreement with the United States Government, under which the United States obtains the seals and turns over to the Canadian Fisheries Department 20 per cent of the annual take.

Gross returns from 12,703 Pribilof seals sold at Montreal last year amounted to $665,400. Proceeds of 3,679 pelts which the Government marketed at St. Louis, Mo., are expected to add another $200,000 and, in addition, Canada will receive 20 per cent of net receipts obtained by the United States Government from its sale of 20,032 skins last April.

Purpose of this phase of Government enterprise has been to conserve the Pribilof herds. The first steps were taken in 1911 when Pacific fur seal stocks reached an alarmingly low level. Under the Pelagic Sealing Treaty of 1911, Britain, the United States, Russia and Japan agreed to conservation measures to prohibit uncontrolled slaughter. The Pribilof herd had dwindled to 125,000 animals.

The treaty was replaced in 1942 by a joint Canada-United States provisional agreement.

SHORTAGE PREDICTED

OTTAWA, Feb. 24 (CP).—An acute shortage of fertilizers for Canadian agriculture unless more freight cars become available within the next 75 days was forecast today by Federal Agriculture Department officials.

LONDON (CP)—Cupro-nickel coins, instead of silver, will be issued January 1. They will be dated 1947 and they will be easily distinguished from silver coins.

Ace Diplomat Sent to Jail

NUERNBERG, Feb. 24 (AP)—Franz von Papen, once ace of Adolf Hitler's diplomatic corps, was sentenced by a German denazification court today to serve eight years at hard labor.

Sentence was imposed by a seven-man court which found the former reichschancellor and ambassador guilty as a "major offender" who helped Hitler to power and stayed with the Nazi regime to the end.

The court also ordered Von Papen's personal fortune confiscated.

Von Papen was acquitted of war crimes charges last October by the International Military Tribunal which sentenced Hermann Goering and ten other Nazi leaders to death.

The one-time diplomat now is 68 and has hardening of the arteries. The court's sentence was regarded as tantamount to a life term.

At the denazification trial he protested he had been prompted by a desire not to help Hitler but to help Germany. He insisted that after the Fuehrer came to power, he like all others was helpless to intervene.

Von Papen said that he had opposed the union of Austria with Germany when Ambassador to Austria and had worked for peace as Ambassador to Turkey.

The court, however, ruled that his possession of a gold Nazi party badge, however honorary, and lack of evidence of any break with Hitler, were enough to justify conviction.

Von Papen flushed and trembled as President Camill Sachs imposed the verdict. Then he drew himself erect and maintained tight-lipped silence.

The courtroom was crowded with stony-eyed Bavarians who never had liked Von Papen nor many other Prussians.

Von Papen served Germany as a diplomat, soldier, legislator or executive for some 30 years.

Smugglers Use Invasion Craft

LONDON, Feb. 24 (Reuters)—Patched-up invasion craft found abandoned on the shores of Normandy are among the vessels now being used by a miniature navy of smugglers making almost nightly trips across the English Channel, a high British customs official said today.

Manned by former soldiers and sailors, during the last two months alone they have smuggled into Britain more than £4,000,000 ($16,000,000) worth of French whes, spirits, watches, jewels, perfumes and other luxury goods.

"It is a strange paradox that these men whom we trained in the handling of these craft for the greatest amphibian operation of all time should now be using them against us," the official said.

Salvage of Liner Wanganella Regarded as Miraculous Feat

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Feb. 24 (CP). —Behind announcements of the salvage of the 10,000-ton liner Wanganella from a reef at the entrance to Wellington Harbor lies one of the greatest salvage feats in New Zealand history, and something that many experienced shipping men regard as a near miracle.

Cook Strait, which separates the north and south islands of New Zealand and in which the liner was ashore, is one of the most disturbed and violent stretches of water in this part of the Pacific.

Yet for 18 days the Wanganella lay on a treacherous reef at the mercy of wind and seas with scarcely a movement. Calm waters and gentle off-shore breezes prevailed with a persistence unprecedented in living memory.

Meanwhile the Wanganella was the scene of furious activity. Several attempts to free her failed. The famous Australian diver, John Johnstone, made a highly perilous exploration of the reef under the ship.

It was decided to try to swivel the liner off by laying kedge anchors at an angle to the ship on which her winches could pull. The first attempt by this method failed and shortly afterward the first swell large enough to endanger the vessel arose. She began to pound on the reef and for a time it was feared that she would founder.

However, the combined efforts of the swell, the kedge anchors, her propellers and the tugs finally pulled her clear.

The saving of the Wanganella is of national importance to Australia and New Zealand as she is the only regular inter-Dominion passenger liner at present available. A smaller vessel meanwhile will run an emergency service.

Taking as her subject the Security Council dealing with the use and control of atomic energy, Miss Margaret Clay gave the members a comprehensive report on the dangers facing humanity. She pointed out that the only thing that will prevent war is faith—in people, in facts, in knowledge, in the free flow of idea, in true education and educational processes and faith in other people.

Discussions in the commission centred around two proposals, Miss Clay said. The first, submitted in June, 1946, was based on a far-reaching plan for the control of atomic energy and a plan presented by the Soviet delegate providing for the elimination of the bomb as a first step in any control plan which was to be followed by agreement for international controls. The point of disagreement among the members of the Atomic Energy Commission lies in the use of the veto, Miss Clay said.

She pointed out that if we are to have better understanding between all peoples, there must be a more generous approach to Russia. "The Soviet Union conceded certain points and practically no publicity has been given to these except in an indirect manner," she said. Miss Clay continued by saying that the people of Russia must have more confidence in the other nations of the world, and said: "Russia has had some reason to fear us and we have had some reason to fear Russia, but that fear is not going to be dissipated by glaring headlines.

"We must read about atomic energy, talk about it, think about it," Miss Clay said, "as knowledge, and knowledge alone, is going to save the world." She stressed particularly the part that women can play and said: "I don't believe any women's organization which makes claim to intelligence can afford not to make a very careful study of atomic energy and its potentialities."

Following the address, Miss Isabelle Pike sang "In My Garden" and "Wallpaper," accompanied by Mrs. Firth.

Miss Edith Parsell, social convener, who with a committee arranged the program for the evening, was in the chair. At the close of the meeting, Miss Minnie Beveridge, president, thanked Miss Parsell and her committee.

Mrs. M. J. de la Mothe, of Vancouver, and sister of the bride, was the only attendant in a blue gabardine suit with corsage of pink carnations and freesias.

The groom's brother, Mr. Robert Godfrey, was best man.

A reception was held at the home of Mrs. W. Ernest Drummond, 1134 Dallas Road, where the toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Ernest Drummond. A four-tiered wedding cake centred the table which was decorated with tall pink tapers.

For a motor trip to California, the bride donned a blue ensemble trimmed with leopard skin fur and alligator accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey will make their home at Saanichton.

At the Theatres

ATLAS THEATRE — A delightfully refreshing approach to an ever-popular motion picture theme, the romantic triangle, is to be found in "One More Tomorrow," Warner Bros.' film comedy, which ends tonight at the Atlas Theatre. With a five-star cast headed by Ann Sheridan, Dennis Morgan, Alexis Smith, Jane Wyman and Jack Carson, the film is a streamlined commentary on current-day life.

CAPITOL — Republic Pictures' "I've Always Loved You," starring Catherine McLeod and William Carter, is one of the most distinguished and beautiful motion pictures ever filmed. The Technicolor musical drama is now showing at the Capitol Theatre. Produced and directed by Frank Borzage, "I've Always Loved You" is an intensely dramatic story into which is woven some of the finest music ever written by Rachmaninoff, Chopin, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Wagner, Mozart and Bach.

PLAZA THEATRE — "Mom and Dad," which has been held over at the Plaza Theatre, is so human and so true to everyday life as we live it here in Canada today, that it touches the heart of most everyone. Boasting no big headline names, but a large cast of all-stars hand-picked from Hollywood and the New York stage, "Mom and Dad" is vital, timely and very educational. It speaks out the truth and pulls no punches while doing it.

RIO THEATRE — Irene Dunne, Alexander Knox and Charles Coburn, are currently appearing in Columbia Pictures' adaptation of the Ruth Gordon Broadway hit, "Over 21," now showing at the Rio Theatre. Others in the cast include Jeff Donnell, Loren Tindall, Lee Patrick, Phil Brown, Cora Witherspoon and Charles Evans. The picture was directed by Charles Vidor from the screen play by Sidney Buchman.

ROYAL THEATRE — For the India sequences in the "Razor's Edge," which has been held over at the Royal Theatre, the studio utilized the services of Dr. Paul Singh, a native of the Himalayas, and Ahmad Kamal, who advised on scenes in which Tyrone Power and an Indian holy man figure. However they are regarded, one thing true of Hollywood's technical advisers is that with them authenticity is law.

YORK THEATRE — As typical of the spirit of France as the French Revolution, the storming of the Bastile, the Paris Commune and the glory that was Francois Villon's, is the Maquis, who is again making history of which France can be proud. Headlines scream the stories of the glorious victories of the French people as they fight for the liberation of every French city, town and village. No better example of this can be seen than in the Paramount picture "Till We Meet Again," which opened yesterday at the York Theatre, starring Ray Milland and Barbara Britton.

Little Stories for Bedtime - - -

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

JENNY AND MR. WREN ARE BUSY

Jenny and Mr. Wren were busy. Yes, siree, they were busy. If there were any busier folks anywhere, Peter Rabbit couldn't imagine who they could be. You see, every one of those seven eggs in that nest had hatched, and seven mouths are a lot to feed, especially when every morsel of food must be hunted for and carried from a distance.

There was little time for gossip now. Just as soon as it was light enough to see Jenny and Mr. Wren began to feed those always hungry babies, and with hardly time for an occasional mouthful themselves, they kept at it until the Black Shadows came out from the Purple Hills. Wren babies, like all other bird babies, grow very fast and this means that each one of them must have a great deal of food every day. A Wren baby often eats its own weight in food in a day, and all this food has to be hunted for and carried back and put into the gaping little mouths.

With seven such gaping little mouths, you can imagine how busy the Wrens were. Hardly would Jenny disappear in the little round doorway of her home with a caterpillar in her bill, then she would pop out again and Mr. Wren would take her place with a spider or a fly. Then both would hurry away for something more.

Peter tried to keep count of the number of times they came out, but soon gave it up as a bad job. He began to wonder where all the worms and bugs and spiders came from and gradually he came to have a great deal of respect for eyes sharp enough to find them so quickly. He began, too, to understand how useful Jenny and Mr. Wren were, for he knew that most of the worms and caterpillars and bugs with which they fed their babies were very harmful to plants and trees.

Needless to say, Jenny was shorter tempered than ever. She had no time to gossip and said so most emphatically. Nor did Mr. Wren have time to sing. Of course they had to rest once in a while, but it was never for a very long time. Whenever she did stop to rest Jenny looked worried. She had the care of that big family on her mind every minute.

So at last Peter gave up the idea of trying to find out from her certain things he wanted to know and hopped off to look for someone who was less busy. He had gone but a short distance when his attention was caught by a song so sweet and so full of little trills that he first stopped to listen and then hurried to look for the singer.

Next story: Peter Discovers Linnet.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (AP).—Steels, motors, rubbers and industrials led a retreat in today's stock market although selling was exceptionally timid and dealings the slowest for more than a month.

The direction was downward from the start with the ticker tape frequently dozing. While a few pivotals managed to close in the plus column and extreme setbacks were reduced here and there, losses of fractions to a point or more predominated. Transfer of 810,000 shares compared with 860,000 Friday and were the smallest for a full session since January 22.

The flow of generally pleasing dividends and earnings failed to spur most stocks concerned and this, again, tended to accentuate speculative and investment caution. Numerous customers trimmed accounts and stood aside to await fax developments, results of various wage parleys and more light on the course of business.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .3 of a point at 67.6. Of 942 issues registering, 539 fell and 214 advanced.

Tide, Rest to Play Benefit Saturday

Proceeds of Game to Go to Tom McKeachie—Lay Plans for Intermediate, Junior Finals

Victoria's Crimson Tide and The Rest will meet in an exhibition Rugby match at Macdonald Park on Saturday with all proceeds from the game going to help defray the expenses of Tom McKeachie, Tide fullback who broke a collar bone in Saturday's McKechnie Cup fixture at Vancouver, it was decided last night at a meeting of the Victoria Rugby Union.

Victoria College and Naval College will clash in a regular intermediate fixture prior to the feature game.

Rugby officials will go all out to make Saturday's match a successful one from all angles. Certain that the Tide has a good chance of handing U.B.C. Thunderbirds a setback in their return engagement a week from Saturday, the selection committee will watch the game closely for ways of improving the Rep club and filling the gap left by McKeachie's injury.

McKeachie, popular and steady-going, will probably see no more Rugby action this season and will be unable to resume work for a month.

It was also decided to go ahead with plans for provincial intermediate and junior series with the Vancouver winners.

Victoria intermediate league winners will play a home-and-home series with the Vancouver winners for possession of the Province Cup. The junior series will be the same as last year when the Crimson Ripples met Vancouver's champions. Joe Andrews and Hugh Farquhar have been named to select the junior line-up.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 23 (AP).—Vancouver Hornets upset Portland Indians 50-42 here, today to win their second straight game from the Pacific Coast Pro Basketball League leaders.

The defeat was the second at home for Portland in 22 starts here. The Hornets held a 29-20 edge at the halftime and fought grimly to hold on through the contest, with Norm Baker collecting 23 points.

The top — and remaining — four teams swing into a round-robin playoff series this week with the ultimate winner to represent the circuit in the national pro tournament in Chicago.

With Portland already having clinched the regular season title, the league moguls called off the remainder of the schedule and moved right into the play-offs.

Portland travels to Bellingham in Tuesday's opener with Bellingham tackling Vancouver in the Canadian city Wednesday night. Seattle entertains Portland Thursday while Vancouver plays in Bellingham.

Each team will play a trio of encounters with the other three teams. The play-off will end March 23.

Line-ups:

Vancouver—Chapman 2, Baker 22, Osterhaus 9, Peden 6, Nichol 5, Vaughn 5, Lawn. Total 50.

Portland—Butterworth 7, Mandic 8, Wintermute 14, Durdan 2, Hamilton 5, Hafenecker, Pflugrad 3, Sarpola 2, Taitt 1. Total 42.

EAGLES, TAXIMEN DRAW

Eagles and Black and White Taxi played to a 1-1 draw in a hard-tought Division One juvenile soccer match at Heywood Avenue on Sunday.

A practice session of the Eagles has been set for Macdonald Park tomorrow evening, commencing at 7.

Sport Roundup

Owners of the Pittsburgh Pirates are endeavoring to purchase Stan Musial from the St. Louis Cardinals and are reported to be willing to pay a fabulous price for the slugging first baseman.

Play-off dates for the Western Canada junior Rugby championship were set at a Calgary meeting Sunday. Saskatchewan and Manitoba and Alberta and British Columbia winners will meet in a home-and-home series on October 25 and November 1. Winners of these series will clash in the final November 9 or 11.

Australia's famed wonder horse, Bernborough, arrived in San Francisco Sunday. The horse was purchased by Louis B. Mayer for a reported $300,000 and will stand at stud near Lexington, Ky.

Canadian tennis officials nixed a suggestion that pros be allowed to compete in amateur tournaments but are understood to favor open net meets, believing that they would be a stimulus for the court game.

Attempts are being made to bring the Swedish hockey team, which finished second in the world's tournament, to Canada. Bus Zobrosky, Canadian player who coached in Czecho-Slovakia this year, states that any good Canadian junior club could take either the Swedes or the Czechs.

Syd Howe, who had his N.H.L. scoring record smashed by Bill Cowley a week ago, is currently starring for the Ottawa Senators, a definite Allan Cup threat. Over 7,000 fans gave him a big night Saturday at Ottawa when he was showered with gifts prior to a league game.

B.C.A.S.A. to Meet

The B.C.A.S.A. will hold its regular meeting in the British Public Schools Club tomorrow at 8:00 p.m. All members are asked to attend.

NANAIMO, Feb. 24 (CP)—St. Andrews of Vancouver yesterday afternoon defeated Nanaimo, 3-0, in a scheduled Pacific Coast Senior Soccer League match here.

The game, which attracted one of the season's best crowds, saw Nanaimo put up a great fight against the classy visitors. The losers, having an equal share of the play, were held scoreless on a combination of bad luck and lack of finish around the opposing net.

Jackie Whent, clever ex-Brighton star, scored the game's initial goal on a penalty shot.

Wes Henderson, who turned in a bustling performance at right back, notched the second St. Andrews' goal. The ball, fired from almost 40 feet out, grazed the top bar as Goalie Johnstone rose to fist it out.

Centre Forward Frank Ambler gave the Mainlanders their third and last goal near the midway mark of the second half as he lobbed a ball from close in that caught the Nanaimo club flat-footed.

Line-ups:

St. Andrews—Nesbold; Stormes and Webber; Henderson, Glover and J. Nesbold; Greig, Whent, Ambler, Procter and Brown. Subs: McKay and Simpson.

Nanaimo—Johnstone; McKay and Bilton; Leigh, English and Grey; Rice, Scott, Foster, Fesserbrook and Parks. Subs: Denton, Negrin and Carmichael.

Oregon State Wins Conference Crown

PULLMAN, Feb. 24 (AP).—Oregon State won the Northern Division basketball title of the Pacific Coast Conference tonight by easily defeating the [illegible] Washington State Cougars, 51-30, after holding a substantial 26-12 lead at halftime.

The Beavers will meet the Southern Division champions, either U.C.L.A. or California, for the conference crown in a three-game series at Corvallis, March 7, 8 and 10.

Legion Trims Oak Bay, 8-2; Loop Tied Up

Race for second-half honors in the Victoria and District Football Association tightened up on Sunday as Esquimalt and Legion came through with victories to create a three-way deadlock for the lead between the Wests, Legion and Oak Bay.

Esquimalt continued their mastery over the Wests at Bullen Park by coming through with a 4-3 win as a belated Greenshirt rally fell short. Meanwhile, Legion romped to an 8-2 triumph over Oak Bay, who took their second straight setback after getting away to a good start.

Ab Travis gave Wests an early lead but goals by Eddie Young and Tommy Druce gave Dockyardera a 2-1 half-time lead. Druce scored again in the second half on a header and passed to Young for Esquimalt's fourth goal immediately after.

Losers rallied as they went on an all-out attack. Prior reduced the margin on a pass from Gent and the latter scored himself just before the final whistle but the rally came too late.

George Payne scored three goals for Legion to show the way for the service club. Andy Anderson and Ray Oliver each counted a pair and Ernie Costain netted the other counter. Arnie Ferguson and Robinson were the Oak Bay marksmen. Half-time score was 4-1.

Czechs Win World Hockey Title

PRAGUE, Feb. 23 (CP).—Czecho-Slovakia won the world amateur ice hockey championship today by defeating the United States sextette, 6-1.

Sweden, upset earlier today by Austria, 2-1, finished second in the international tournament. Austria was third, Switzerland fourth and the United States fifth.

The Czechs won six games and lost one for 12 points in the round robin tournament. The Swedes finished second with 11 points and thereby won the European championship which is awarded to the runner-up team in the first two sextettes—as in this case—are from Europe.

College Gridders Lose Opening Game, Most of Hair

—Colonist Photo

Paying penance for their 21-5 defeat at the hands of Oak Bay on Sunday at Macdonald Park, members of the St. Louis College intermediate grid team yesterday inflicted some self-punishment by having their hair shorn Mohawk style. In the above picture, "Dodo" French is seen having his locks clipped with Les O'Connor as the tonsorial artist. Teammates L. McDougall, Wilf Prevost and Jerry Sylvester (left to right) are seen in the background awaiting their turn. Members of the Oak Bay team were also on hand to enjoy the scene. The game marked the opening of the Canadian Rugby Spring league. In the other game of the double bill, St. Louis College midgets came through with a 23-10 triumph over Oak Bay to leave the rival clubs even for the day.

Leafs, Canadiens Draw; 20,004 at Chicago Game

HOW THEY STAND

Canadiens	28	13	9	180	114	65
Toronto	26	15	8	159	132	60

Sunday's scores: Toronto 2, Canadiens 2; Rangers 2, Detroit 2; Boston 9, Chicago 4.

Next games, tomorrow: Canadiens at Toronto; Chicago at Rangers.

Toronto and Canadiens remained as they were in their battle for first place in the N.H.L. on Sunday when they played to a slam-bang 2-2 draw at Montreal.

Other Sunday developments saw a new attendance record written into the books at hockey-crazy Chicago, where 20,004 fans were on hand to see Boston slap a 9-4 setback on the Hawks and further dim their waning play-off hopes. The Bruin win, coupled with New York's 2-2 tie with Detroit, sent the Beantowners into a third-place deadlock with Rangers.

At Montreal, the colorful defence ace, Kenny Reardon, saved the day for the Canadiens when he scored a story-book goal with seven seconds left.

Over 12,750 fans, largest crowd of the season, went almost delirious when Reardon capped a rush by rounding the goal and slipping the puck past Broda as he slithered on his face to climax a wild evening on the ice.

The hard-bumping, rough-riding contest gave the fans almost everything in the book, including a ten-minute misconduct penalty and a $25 fine to Syl Apps, who was banished for taking a hand when Leger and Ezinicki tangled.

Turk Broda, in the Toronto nets, was the standout as Canucks forced the issue in the last half of the game. A brilliant rush by Maurice Richard in the second period put Montreal on even terms after Meeker scored in the initial period.

Wally Sanowski's goal with less than nine minutes left looked like the winner until Reardon came through when Canadiens had pulled Durnan off the ice and sent six players on the attack.

TOAST and TEA
By J. V. McAREE

IN his tremendous "In Search of Myself," Frederick Philip Grove gives us a picture of his struggles. He writes: "I had a complete list of the publishers in the United States, Canada, England and Continental Europe to whom I had offered one book or another, ever since I had first finished the initial long version of 'A Search for America.' This book had, in the list of my manuscript works, been joined by 10 or 12 others, all copied out in six copies of fine, copper-plate handwriting. Let me say that there were 12 volumes in all; then there were 72 manuscripts; and each of them had been sent out and received back at least three times, more likely five times a year. So that I had made, on an average, 360 shipments a year, or one a day. I had, of course, long since given up insuring my parcels; I did not even register them any longer; I sent them by mail as second-class matter. Some of them had been lost that way, but even at that the mere shipping had cost me close to $100 a year. In 16 years that had amounted to over $1,500. And on writing materials I had spent at least another hundred, though I had no record." Incidentally, at this time he had not sold a dollar's worth of his writings.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, Feb. 24. — A committee headed by L. P. Weber has been appointed by the Malahat Board of Trade to investigate the intentions of the Department of Public Works towards the completion of the Port Renfrew road, it was decided at the board's regular meeting. The present road, it was pointed out, ends at the end of steel of the Malahat Logging Company Railway.

The board was pleased to note the installation of telephone service to the Malahat, as it was the first organization to advocate this step before the war.

Incorporation for the village of Shawnigan was again discussed, and a committee comprising J. O. Morley, A. Cudlip and G. Stilwell will investigate.

A district pound law, advocated by the South Vancouver Island Taxpayers Association, failed endorsation by the board when it was pointed out that the proposed pound area boundary cut Shawnigan at the Elford and Furlonge Roads.

Pressure Exerted Garagemen Claim

A claim that pressure is being exerted by large oil companies in an attempt to force service stations to remain open 24 hours a day was made in a statement issued yesterday by the Victoria Branch of the Garage and Motor Trades' Association.

The statement said oil companies knew that stations could not be operated without loss during the night hours with the exception of one or two stations which combine sales with garage service.

Representations will be made to oil companies to come to some arrangement which will avoid operation at a loss.

The association also objected to the number of new stations being built and decided to appeal to the oil controller and the City Council to prevent the rezoning of any more sites for this purpose.

Woman Describes "Planting" Of Dynamite Caps at Duncan

NANAIMO, Feb. 24 (CP).—Yvonne Ferris, of Campbell River, told the County Court here today how she "planted" a package containing four dynamite caps and fuse sticks in a wash room ventilator at the Duncan Bus Terminal. The package was found several days later by the bus dispatcher.

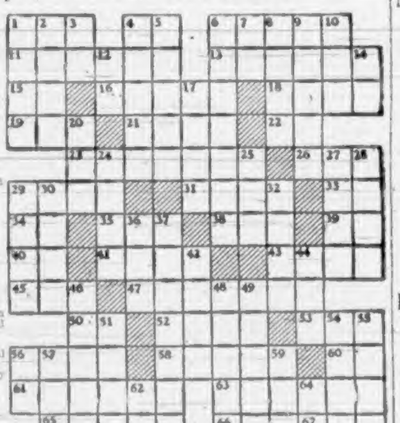

Miss Ferris' testimony arose during the trial of William Munavish, alias Morris, who is charged with breaking and entering and theft in connection with the recent safe blowing at the Chemainus Victoria Lumber Company when $600 was taken.

He escaped from jail at Duncan recently, and was re-arrested some hours later by Victoria police.

James MacFadden, powderman for the Victoria Lumber Company, testified that he secured six dynamite caps and fuses for Munavish, who said he needed them to remove stumps on a farm at Cedar, B.C.

The trial is continuing.

Chinese Society Offers Reward As City Police Seek Murderer

Officials of the Hook Sin Tong Charity, 638 Herald Street, a Chinese benevolent society, announced late yesterday afternoon that the group had posted a $500 reward to be paid to any person who supplies information and is directly responsible for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Yuen Gin Hing, 36-year-old Victoria-born Chinese vegetable peddler, whose badly beaten body was found in the [illegible] Avenue, last Wednesday.

Meanwhile, investigations being carried out by city police have led them to the belief that the savage attack on the Chinese was premeditated, Detective Inspector Henry Jarvis said yesterday.

While the robbery motive has not yet been completely discarded, Inspector Jarvis said it is believed the beating administered would not have been so severe if this were the sole reason for the attack.

Death of the Chinese, which came two days after the brutal beating, was caused by a blow on the side of his head which crushed his skull, police said. In addition he had been struck on the top of his head and on his face, it was reported.

Another of the circumstances, which led police to the belief the attack was premeditated is the fact the light bulb in a shed at the rear of the house, where the victim was working, had been unscrewed from its socket so that it could not be illuminated from the switch, thus keeping the area in darkness.

Police believe the murdered man was on his way from the shed to the house with a crate of tomatoes when he was struck down in the darkness by an assailant hiding behind several sacks of vegetables on the porch.

Following up this theory police [illegible] of the victim in this city, and in Vancouver, from where he came to Victoria six months ago. Investigations are also proceeding in Duncan, where Hing lived for a short time.

An inquest into the death will be held on Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Thomson Funeral Home, police announced yesterday.

School Alumni Honors Dr. S. J. Willis

A reunion which brought together 130 ex-students and ex-teachers of three generations of Victoria schooling in honor of Dr. S. J. Willis, former deputy minister of education for British Columbia, and Mrs. Willis, was held under happy auspices in the lower lounge of the Empress Hotel on Sunday afternoon. Dr. Willis was presented with a handsomely-worked leather wallet: the sincere expression of scores of the men and women whom he had taught or with whom he has been associated in his 45 years in the school life of this province.

The reunion, taking the form of a reception to Dr. and Mrs. Willis jointly, was convened by Miss Mary Hamilton, Miss Norah Hewlings, Miss Margaret Clay and A. H. Marrion, with Miss Clay acting as master of ceremonies.

Professor F. G. C. Wood, of the department of English, University of British Columbia, expressed for the gathering the esteem and affection in which Dr. and Mrs. Willis were held by all who had been associated with them in more than four decades of active, busy career. Honored by two Canadian universities, Dr. Willis has left an indelible impress on three school generations for his kindness, sense of justice and even-handed advice and counsel, Prof. Wood declared, tracing the highlights of an educational outstanding career.

Speaking characteristically in reply, Dr. Willis recalled early scenes at the old Victoria High School, the birth and growth of Victoria College, high school life at a later period in Vancouver, and his long association with the British Columbia Department of Education. He said that it had been one of the pleasures of his life to see the young men and women with whom he had worked forge ahead on life's road, and to remain as his friends through changing times. He named the staffs of each school with which he had been associated, and thanked those present for their cordial expressions of good will.

Mrs. W. H. Wilson contributed a fine rendition of "The Road to the Isles" and other numbers, with Mrs. John Gough at the piano, in a brief musical interlude. The reception, which lasted for three hours was attended by Mainland and Island representatives of all alumni groups.

Interest Grows In Northern Belt

While little is known at the Provincial Mines Department of reported strikes in the Goldway Peak-Johanson Creek areas of the Omineca Mountains, about 200 miles northwest of Fort St. James, officials say that one block of 22 claims, another of 23, one of 36, one of four and one of 28 claims had been staked near Goldway Peak and north of Johanson Creek a large block of 72 claims had been registered.

Attention was attracted to the district by the report of the Dominion Geological Survey of the McConnell Creek area last year, which said that a belt some 20 miles long and two miles wide was well worth prospecting for gold.

"We have had no reports on the area so far," said Dr. John F. Walker, Deputy Minister of Mines. "Reports that Bert Goodrich, a well known prospector from the Kootenays, had struck high grade, is extremely interesting.

"Samples have been sent to our assay office here, but, of course, the reports are available only to the prospectors who send them in and we can not divulge how high they went.

"Large companies said to have men at work in the area, naturally keep their information for their own files only. All we can say right now is that there is plenty of interest in that district.

"Inaccessibility to the area, naturally, is retarding development, but air transportation is being used by the big companies interested and this year may see an important camp established in the northland."

Group Completes Study of Cases

The Juvenile and Probation Officers' Committee of the County of Victoria expressed hope at a meeting that a refresher course might be arranged for probation officers in co-operation with the University of British Columbia.

The committee has completed a study of children coming before the court during the period from 1936 to 1946. Request for the study was made by the judge of the juvenile court.

The next meeting will review cases of children who have repeated, in an effort to understand the reasons for children continuing their delinquencies. Magistrate Henry Hall will be asked to meet with the committee for this purpose.

Distiller Gets 22½ Per Cent Of Rye Price

The purchaser of a bottle of rye or Scotch whisky gets for his money something that actually cost just about one-fifth of what he paid for it.

Price paid to the distiller for both types of liquor, plus cost of transportation, account for only 22½ per cent of the charge made to the public, Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer told the Legislature yesterday in answer to questions by Herbert Gargrave (C.C.F., Mackenzie).

All the rest goes to the Federal and Provincial Governments, less unstated costs of local transportation, warehousing and upkeep of British Columbia's 72 liquor stores.

Mr. Gargrave wanted a complete breakdown of current rye and Scotch prices to the consumer. This is the answer he got from the Attorney-General.

Of the sale price of Scotch, 22½ per cent goes to the distiller and for transportation, 30½ per cent to the Dominion Government and 47 per cent to the Provincial Government.

Of the selling price of rye, 22½ per cent goes to the distiller and for transportation, 36¼ per cent to the Dominion Government and 41¼ per cent to the Provincial Government.

NOTHING OBTAINED

Burglars who ransacked the safe in the office of the Home Oil Company, Huron Street, over the weekend, left without obtaining any loot, city police reported yesterday.

The safe had been left open, company officials said, and contained no money. A new barrel-type safe in the office was untouched, it was reported.

Entry to the premises was gained through a window into the manager's office.

To clean walls, move the brush from the bottom up, not the top down. Dust hangs down, and the upward motion lifts it off without danger of streaking.

Cards Will Provide Air Travel Credit

Trans-Canada Air Lines will soon distribute an international travel card that will enable travelers to go around the world without carrying large sums of money for transportation purposes, it was announced yesterday by Ron Williams, city traffic manager here.

The new card will be essentially a credit device entitling the holder to transportation anywhere in the world over the routes of the 25 airlines participating in the plan.

At present, only North American airlines are participating in the plan, although airlines of foreign registry may soon become participants.

Otter Trawlers Remain in Port As Fishermen Seek Agreement

A deadlock has been reached between otter trawler fishermen of British Columbia who are seeking a minimum price agreement and fish dealers who have refused to meet requests of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union.

Of approximately 80 trawlers affected by the issue, more than 15 operate from Victoria and Lower Vancouver Island. They have stopped operations and will not go "ground fishing" again until dealers consent to a guaranteed minimum of nine cents per pound for ling cod and six cents a pound for sole.

"We are not after higher prices," explained E. Neish, president of the Victoria branch of the union, "all we want is a minimum price agreement."

He added: "We are now getting 10 cents a pound for ling cod, and we are asking for a minimum of nine cents."

Fish dealers have offered a minimum of 5½ cents a pound for ling cod, and four cents a pound for sole.

To discuss issues at stake, all otter trawler fishermen of this area will attend an emergency meeting tonight at the Victoria Trades and Labor Council Hall. The meeting starts at 7 o'clock.

If the trawler tie-up continues for some time, it is expected a number of fishermen will head out to sea in search of livers.

Fish firms involved in the trawler dispute in Victoria are: B.C. Packers, Ltd., B. W. Brown & Son, Ltd., and Western Fish Co. (Canada), Ltd. All have so far stood firm in their refusal to sign agreements.

Seeks Action To Retain Present Hours

Faced with the prospect of commencing a 5½-day week March 3, the naval employees' group of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada in a resolution last night urged the national office to take immediate action to insure the continuation of the present work week.

"The hourly-paid of H.M.C. Dockyard are working a five-day week, which necessitates the closing of all naval storehouses and affects the civil servants employed therein, causing no stores to be issued or received on Saturdays," said the resolution.

It was held that civil servants are working a five-day week to the complete satisfaction of firms here which operate on a similar system. Commercial firms dealing with naval stores have notified the department that they are on a five-day week, thus stopping any dealings with these firms on Saturdays, the resolution stated.

"It is in the interest of good management to work a five-day week and to conform with changing conditions now accepted by progressive employers," it concluded.

The meeting urged Security Guards be placed under the Civil Service Commission at a salary comparable to that now in force, if any change is contemplated by the Naval Service.

The group emphasized that they had the highest respect for the Corps of Commissionaires.

"This work was never intended for Corps of Commissionaires to assume, as they employ more elderly persons and were never intended to go into competitive work," said a resolution.

Coroner's Jury Absolves Driver Of Blame in Fatality at Sidney

William Fetherbridge, Third Avenue, Sidney, driver of a milk delivery truck which struck and fatally injured 19-month-old John Speedie, in the driveway of his parents' auto court last Wednesday, was absolved of blame for the accident by a coroner's jury yesterday.

In returning a verdict of accidental death, the jury added a rider that until a safe playground is established [illegible] should be prohibited from entering the driveway to make deliveries.

The Speedie child was the first of two youngsters to die under the wheels of trucks last Wednesday. Just a few hours after the Sidney accident, four-year-old Sherry Prior, 524 John Street, was fatally injured when run over by a heavy wood truck on Bridge Street, in the city.

A coroner's jury inquiring into the latter fatality also absolved the truck driver and recommended the establishment of a playground in the area.

Claiming he had not seen the Speedie child at all prior to the accident, Fetherbridge told the jury he was unaware that anything had happened until he heard shouting.

He said he had finished his milk deliveries to two bungalows in the court and on coming back to his truck had noticed two young children playing near the front of the vehicle.

WARNED CHILDREN TO MOVE ASIDE

"I warned them to move to one side," he said. "After I saw them safely out of the way I got into the truck and started slowly."

He then heard a shout, he testified, and immediately brought the machine to a stop.

Ernest Henn, a resident of the court, said he had been working outside his bungalow and had seen the three children in the vicinity of the milk truck.

He called to them to get out of the way of the vehicle, he said, and two of the youngsters heeded the warning. The Speedie child was directly in front of the truck and was the only one in any danger, he recalled.

He saw the driver get into his truck, he stated, but it was not until the vehicle started to move that he [illegible] the Speedie child.

In answer to a question he said the child had been playing only about a foot from the front end of the truck.

"I'm almost sure the driver could not have seen Johnnie from the driver's seat," he declared.

The truck started slowly and was stopped as soon as the driver realized anything was wrong, he said.

John Speedie, Jr., father of the child, testified he had witnessed the accident from the window of his house. The children usually keep well away from any vehicles parked in the driveway, he said.

Dr. G. H. Hoehn, of Sidney, to whom the child was taken following the accident, said the youngster had died from internal injuries and shock.

The inquest, held at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Parlor, was under the direction of Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner. Jury consisted of Richard M. Williams, foreman; John Russel, Leslie Dash, Melvin Brundrige, John M. Millar, Garnet Baker.

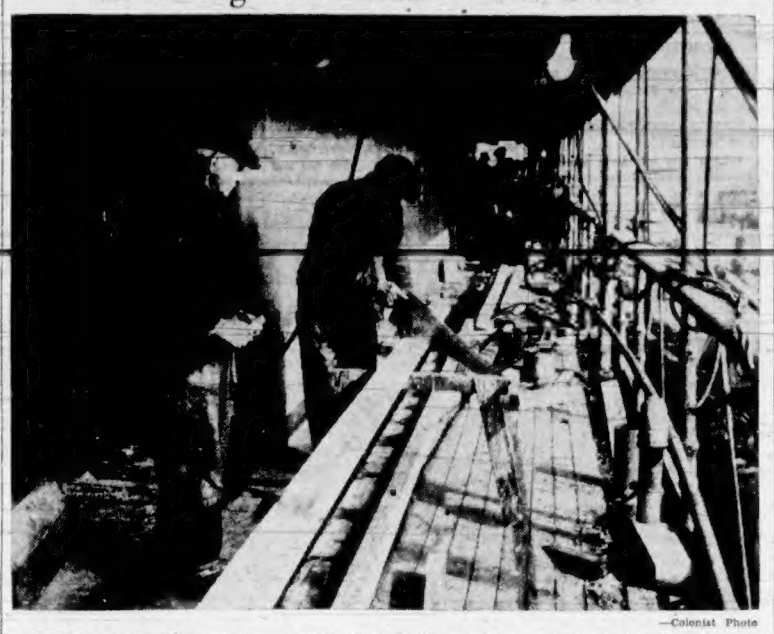

Missing Man Sought Here

Police forces of Greater Victoria are co-operating with Vancouver police in the search for Louis V. Greenwood, 68, who disappeared from his home in the Mainland city over a week ago.

Louis W. Greenwood, of Vancouver, a son of the missing man, told Victoria police that his father had been seen walking along Douglas Street near Broughton Street last Thursday.

Description of the missing man given police is that he is five feet eight inches in height, of slim build, has a black moustache, and walks with a limp, using a cane.

Work Progresses on Ss. Princess Kathleen

—Colonist Photo

THERE'S a lot of work under way on board Ss. Princess Kathleen these days at Victoria Machinery Depot Co., Ltd. Reconversion of the C.P.R. coastal passenger ship commenced last September, and she is expected to resume service on the "triangle run" in June.

In the above photograph two shipwrights are shown laying planking on the main deck promenade. Sawing the plank about to be laid in place is D. J. Kroeker, two-year employee of V.M.D. With him is Gerry Jenner, who has been a shipwright at the yard for past five years.

A large number of workmen are busy throughout the ship. Staterooms are being rebuilt, the bridge structure has undergone a complete renovation, and work is progressing in practically every section of the vessel.

Progress Without Revolution Aim of Liberalism Says Weir

In a statement of the principles of Liberalism in a changing world, Education Minister G. M. Weir told the Victoria Laurier Club last evening that Liberalism maintained a nice balance between liberty and compulsion, with Government acting as a referee or police force.

Although it was the eve of his "policy" speech in the Legislature, Dr. Weir no more than touched on his own department of Government. He reminded the club, however, that Liberalism in the larger sense placed special emphasis on public health and public education.

"It advocates and strives for progress without revolution and stability without reaction," he said.

"It aims not at a highwater mark in social welfare, above which no one may rise; but at a low water mark below which no one should be allowed to fall. Liberalism's objective is the golden mean—perhaps even the golden rule—between revolution, whether social, economic or military, and reaction. Liberalism in action is democracy at work."

CANADA FORTUNATE TO HAVE STATESMAN

In a reference to Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself, Dr. Weir said Canada was indeed fortunate "that a man of his stature passed this way and tarried in our midst. His like will not soon be seen again."

Liberalism, he continued, stood for freedom under law, universal education, the God-given right of health for every person, material and national prosperity, and national unity, which was something more than mutual toleration, too often characterized by suppressed suspicion generated by racial, language and sectarian prejudices.

"Only by developing through liberal education such a Canadian outlook can the minds of our people be freed from bigotry, intolerance, and the machinations of the flag-waving demagogue," Dr. Weir declared.

Seated at the head table were Col. J. R. Kingham, Ald. H. M. Diggon, Ald. P. M. Cabeldu, Councillor J. V. Johnson, ex-Ald. J. A. Worthington, T. W. Hawkins and G. A. A. Hebden, chairman.

Will Seek Ban On Hunting With Arrows

As a result of the recent killing of buffalo by archers in Rawlins, Wyoming, the Victoria branch of the S.P.C.A. will take steps to have bow and arrow hunting outlawed in British Columbia.

James Barr, president of the S.P.C.A. here, has written for further details of the buffalo hunt in Wyoming. In his letter he said that it was "lamentable that these archers were permitted to carry out their brutal exhibition in the face of so many protests."

"There is no gainsaying the fact that these unfortunate animals were terrorized, abused and tortured before being slaughtered, and there is never any justification for the perpetration of such cruelty," Mr. Barr said.

City Requested To Run Centre

The city has been asked by Wartime Housing Ltd., to take over the community centre building operated by the company in connection with the homes it built for war workers in James Bay.

In a letter to Mayor Percy E. George yesterday, J. A. Jones, regional supervisor, pointed out the centres were originally established in connection with workers' homes in order to cut down absenteeism in war industries.

The scheme was very successful for this purpose, he pointed out, but, now the emergency was over, the Federal Government did not consider local community centres its proper responsibility.

He suggested the city might be interested in operation of the centre.

Mayor George indicated he would have to give the matter some study before stating his reaction.

Gyro Meeting Sees Movies

For half an hour yesterday members of the Victoria Gyro Club were taken back to boyhood days.

At the regular luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel they sat in a darkened room to see two silent films entitled "Revenge on the Range" and "Muddling in Mud," both of which were probably excellent movies of their day.

Typical of most early "silents," the pictures centred about the eternal triangle.

Len Acres, well-known pianist and member of the club, provided excellent musical accompaniment.

The pictures demonstrated the advances made by the motion picture industry in the past 25 years.

Island Arts and Crafts Shown at Little Centre

Indian basketware, weaving, sculpture, embroidery, and wood cuts, along with an extensive collection of crayon sketches, oil and water sketches, oil and water color paintings are featured in a special one-week exhibition of the Island Arts and Crafts Society which opened here yesterday at the Little Centre.

The display is the 36th annual exhibition of the society and features exclusively the work of artists and craftsmen of Vancouver Island.

Dean Spencer Elliott, of Christ Church Cathedral, gave the opening address of the exhibition, and said the occasion was "of great significance to Victoria."

"Beauty is one of the few basic values in life, and a work of art, which tends to evoke an aesthetic emotion, is the product of a sense of goodness," he said.

Dean Elliott added that there were "too many people in Victoria not taking enough interest in the cultivation of such aesthetic emotions."

John Kyle, president of the Arts and Crafts Society, who introduced the dean to the audience, said that the exhibit was "truly representative of the work now being done on the Island."

"We have here," he said, "the good, the bad and the indifferent works of amateur artists and craftsmen to show the work of contemporary men and women in the area."

Most of the paintings in the exhibition show the inclination of amateur artists to emphasize nature. Interspersed with the landscapes, however, are several flower studies, portraits and paintings of other subjects.

Arthur Checkley's water color, "Road to the Lake" is one of the better landscape scenes, the purples and greens showing especially clearly. A fairly small water color by B. R. Berrick title "Small Craft" is an excellent study of boats tied to a dock, not unlike those in Victoria harbor—with the lighting and water tastefully done.

Maude Lettice has done a very nice water color study of the sea and shore in her "Old Cabins, Clover Point," while Stella Langdale's "Evening," showing a cabin in the woods at the end of day contrasts the fiery lights of the dying sun of the wooden structure and the forest background.

"The Welder," by I. D. D. Uhthoff, is a beautiful work in blue portraying a welder at work. Robert Taylor, of East Sooke, has an excellent water color of wild fowl in motion in his "Mallard Duck."

A special program in connection with the exhibition is planned for 8 p.m. Saturday, when the film "West Wind," on the work of Tom Thompson will be shown. In addition, there will be a speaker and musical selections will be presented.

B. R. Berrick President Of Art Centre

B. R. Berrick was unanimously elected president of the Little Centre here at the annual meeting of the organization last week. He succeeds Hon. Mark Kearley, first president, to the post.

Other officers included Mrs. Ina D. D. Uhthoff, vice-president; honorary treasurers, H. C. Holmes and Osmund Matson and secretary, Miss Yvonne H. Steverson.

Executive committee members appointed were H. W. S. Soulsby, M. A. W. Bridgman, A. H. Sutherland, S. P. Birley, H. G. Parker, J. A. Whitehead, David Whitehead, Miss Sara Spencer, Miss Margaret Clay, Mrs. A. J. Tullis, Mme. Renee Archibald, Mrs. Maude Waugh, Mrs. J. Islay Mutter, Mrs. George P. Melrose, Mrs. Gladys Ewan, Miss Margaret Izard, Miss Gwen Scott and Mrs. A. St. Denis Johnson.

Tribute was paid to the work and enterprise of the retiring president, Mr. Kearley, in establishing a permanent arts centre in Victoria.

Immediate plans, it was announced, call for a membership drive to increase the number to 300, along with extensive development of educational, cultural and community activities.

A loan exhibition of notable paintings loaned by public spirited citizens will be held for three weeks commencing March 4, it was also announced.

Given Air View Of Gordon Head

A bird's eye view of the proposed Gordon Head airpark site was gained Sunday afternoon by W. C. Kersey, Saanich councillor, and Hugh Pattinson.

In a two-seater private plane, each man was taken on a flight over the area with Miles Hague and Dave Duncan, instructor of the Victoria Flying Club, taking turns at the controls.

Councillor Kersey and Mr. Pattinson said later, there were only five buildings on, or immediately adjacent to the proposed airpark. Councillor Kersey said the small plane "wasn't nearly as noisy as a motorcycle, and much less than many trucks."

Mr. Pattinson said he was impressed by the ease of taking off and landing.

Municipal Briefs Of the District

On a recommendation of Alderman Gadsden, the City Council yesterday decided to ask Saanich Council to rezone for airport purposes the 57.5 acre Gordon Head site which the Memorial Airpark Association wishes to develop as an airpark for small planes. He said his airport committee intended to work in close co-operation with the association in developing the field.

The City Council plans a realignment of the north boundary of Kings Road east of Shelbourne to remove the present "jog" in the street.

The city building department has issued permits to M. C. Johnson for a five-room house at 2524 Prior Street to cost $6,000; to S. R. Kipp for a five-room house at 2532 Prior Street to cost $5,500; to W. C. Syrett for a five-room house on Bay Street to cost $6,000; to S. Raby for a five-room house at 331 Richmond Road to cost $6,000, and J. W. Jones for a six-room house on Bay Street to cost $6,000.

Today is the last day on which the mobile X-ray clinic will be stationed at the Health Centre for use by the general public, according to Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical health officer.

Dr. Anderson reported yesterday a suspected case of diphtheria is under observation at Jubilee Hospital. Tests from throat swabs are being made in Vancouver. All contacts are being watched, he said.

PENSIONERS

All members of the Canadian Pensioners' Association, Victoria Branch, are asked to attend the monthly general meeting of the organization in the Pemberton Building at 7:30 p.m. Friday.
